Byrd May Leave For Home July 12 On the Leviathan

Transatlantic Flier and Crew Continue to Be Feted by the French—Center of Attraction on Fourth—Visit Le Bourget Field.

Paris, July 5 (AP).—Commander Richard E. Byrd is likely to leave for home on the steamer Leviathan, sailing July 12, although the date of his departure has not yet been fixed. He and his transatlantic flight companions have decided to leave Paris Saturday and spend Sunday at Le Tauquet, the famous watering resort.

Their decision not to stay in France for an extended period is due to pressure brought to bear on them to hasten back to the United States for the welcome prepared for them there and Commander Byrd's desire to begin preliminary work on his proposed South Pole flight.

Center of Celebration.

The airmen, together with Clarence D. Chamberlin and Charles A. Levine, who preceded them in flight across the Atlantic, were the central figures in Paris' Independence Day celebrations. The six Americans had luncheon with Louis Bleriot, who gained aeronautic fame by flying across the English Channel eighteen years ago, attended an Independence Day ceremony in the Place Des Etats Unis, and last night were the guests of the American Chamber of Commerce at its annual Fourth of July banquet.

Call on Mme. Nungesser.

Early in the day Commander Byrd called on the mother of Captain Nungesser to offer his sympathy. Voicing the hope that her son, who has been missing since he started with Captain Coli on a flight from Paris to New York, would still be found alive, he told her that she would soon have a check for $30,000 collected in America by the Nungesser-Coli Committee, of which he is a member.

Many distinguished personages attended the Bleriot luncheon where the veteran aviator gave high praise not only to the latest transatlantic venture, but to the Lindbergh and Levine exploits, and the Honolulu flight of Lieutenants Maitland and Hagenberger.

Bleriot Eulogizes Byrd.

"In a land monoplane," he said, "Commander Byrd and his companions, Noville, Acosta and Balchen, having organized their expedition with admirable care, accomplished an effort that history will record as one of the finest triumphs of human genius. History will say it was they who first made a commercial voyage across the Atlantic."

At the American Chamber of Commerce banquet the airmen were cheered by their fellow countrymen, and by Marshal Foch, former President Millerand and General Gouraud.

Broadcasts Address.

Commander Byrd shared the honor of launching the first attempt at broadcasting speeches across the Atlantic, with Marshal Foch and M. Dokanowski, minister of public works. The marshal, who seemed overcome with the idea that thousands were listening to his words, made them brief and to the point. He sat down with obvious relief when the ordeal was over.

In his speech at last night's banquet, Commander Byrd declared that if any American had doubt of France's high regard, he or she ought to make a nonstop flight from America to France. He believed it was not so much the flier that the French people acclaimed, but the flag the fliers carry, the emblem of America.

Chamberlin Applauded.

Clarence Chamberlin, vigorously applauded, asked the diners to close their eyes for a moment in reverence to the memory of Nungesser and Coli.

Visit Le Bourget.

Paris, July 5 (AP).—Going to Le Bourget this morning, Commander Byrd and his companions took a look at the flying field where they intended to land from the United States but which they were unable to find in the storm and murk of last Thursday night.

All the pursuit planes of the Thirty-fourth Regiment of French aviation were lined up for their inspection. After looking over the planes they were conducted to the officers' mess where they partook of the "wine of honor" as the guests of Colonel Manchetti, commanding the Thirty-fourth Regiment. Among the many officers present were three generals, Hergault, inspector of aviation; Huet and Pujo.

Emphasizes Scientific Side.

Colonel Manchetti, in a short speech paid tribute to Commander Byrd, dwelling on the scientific aspect of the America's flight. Commander Byrd said it meant much to him to have that aspect of the flight placed foremost.

After the brief ceremonies at the mess were over, the fliers went to the civil aviation field, adjoining the military field, to inspect the air cruisers that come and go daily, linking Paris with almost every other European capital.

They left the field for the ministry of marine, where the crew of the America were guests at a luncheon.

Fewer Medals for Byrd.

Secretary Wilbur will recommend the distinguished flying cross for the commander, this being one of the awards he failed to receive for flying across the north pole. At that time the cross had not been authorized by Congress.

Young Ensign Rum War Hero

Almost Singlehanded He Captures Rum Ship With $500,000 Cargo on Board—Rifle Containing Three Cartridges His Only Weapon.

New York, July 5 (AP).—A 27 year old ensign of the coast guard, who almost singlehanded captured a rum ship with a $500,000 cargo and a crew of 22, today was hailed as one of the greatest individual heroes in the government's war against rum.

Charles Duke, armed with a rifle containing only three cartridges, leaped from a small coast guard patrol boat to the deck of the liquor running craft, bowled over a sailor, who sought to stop him, and then held off the crew for three hours until help arrived.

The capture occurred almost in the shadow of the Statue of Liberty after the craft, the "Economy" had slipped through the cordon of eighteen coast guard guarding the Narrows.

Ship Refuses to Halt.

Duke was in charge of a 30-foot cutter with a crew of three men when he spied the rum ship near Quarantine. Desptie a 30 mile gale the small craft quickly overhauled the larger boat which showed but two dim lights as it sped towards the Jersey shore. Commands to halt unheeded, two shots were then fired across its bow by the patrol boat, but the ship kept on.

The patrol boat finally drew alongside and Ensign Duke sprang aboard. A sailor who barred the way was sent sprawling with a blow from the butt of the ensign's rifle.

Duke's Bluff Succeeds.

Where the patrol boat's gun had failed Duke's exhibition of bluff and bravado succeeded. When the helmsman refused to obey a command to halt, Duke shouted to his men who were keeping the coast guard boat alongside: "Turn the machine gun on this gang if they don't bring this ship up at once."

The coast guard boat carried no machine gun but Duke's threat succeeded. The ship was swung about so sharply that she ran onto a mud bank between Bedloe's Island and Greenville, N. J.

Then, with another of his crew, Ensign Duke herded the rum running crew below decks, while he ordered the remaining two to set out for aid.

For three hours the ensign sat on guard with his rifle across his knees. Finally two larger patrol boats reached the steamer and took over the prize and its crew while Duke returned to the base to get his first sleep in 26 hours.

160,000 Gallons of Alcohol.

Inspection of the vessel was said to reveal a cargo of 160,000 gallons of alcohol, valued at bootleg prices at about $500,000. Officials said the steamer was registered in Belfast as the Grey Point. She cleared from Antwerp where her present cargo was consigned to the British West Indies, they said, but stopped in Halifax, took on a Nova Scotian crew, and after clearing had her name changed for the entry to New York.

Craft Award Affirmed by Court

Judgment of $1,900 and Costs in Conspiracy and Fraud Action Against Rose and David Samuels Upheld by Appellate Division.

The appellate division of the Supreme court, third department, has affirmed the judgment with costs given by a trial jury in the Supreme court in this city in March, 1926, Justice Staley presiding, in the case of Eugene S. Craft and Raymond E. Craft, doing business under the firm name of E. S. Craft & Son, against David Samuels and Rose Samuels. The judgment was for $1,900 and costs, which made a total of $2,153.23.

The action charged conspiracy and fraud in that Samuels, who was a wholesale fruit andl vegetable dealer at Broadway and Cedar street, rendered bills for goods which were not received, the bills being signed as correct by Thomas Gruberg, who was in charge of the fruit and vegetable department of the Craft store. These fraudulent bills were paid by the Messrs. Craft on the signature of Gruberg. An action was also brought against Gruberg but he made a settlement for $1,500.

Samuels contested the case and lost and the judgment of affirmance grows out of the jury's findings. J. DePuy Hasbrouck was attorney and Frank W. Brooks of counsel for plaintiffs-respondents; Van Etten & Cook for defendants-appellants.

Grange Play at Flatbush.

Sergeant Hanley Dead at His Home

Former Widely Known Baseball Pitcher and Policeman Died After Long Illness—Brief Sketch of His Activities.

Former Police Sergeant William F. Hanley of the Kingston police force died this morning at his home on Shufeldt street after a long illness. Although he retired from the police force about two years ago he continued to remain known to his wide circle of friends as Sergeant Hanley.

There were few ball players in the Hudson river valley in the days of the old Hudson River League who were more widely and favorably known than Sergeant Hanley. He was a man of fine physical build, standing fully six feet in height, and powerfully built. As a pitcher he was a right hander with speed to burn, and when he was tossing them over for the old Kingston team he was a hard man to hit safely.

Sergeant Hanley also pitched for the famous Chandlers of Dutchess county. His exploits in the pitcher's box are still vividly recalled by Kingston fans.

On February 1, 1913, he became a member of the Kingston police force and rose to the rank of police sergeant which rank he held at the time of his retirement about two years ago. While a member of the Kingston police department he made a fine record as an officer, and is also remembered by his fellow members of the department for his pitching skill, for with him in the box and the late "Gus" Kuehn behind the bat the Kingston police had a baseball team that was hard to defeat and they had no trouble in winning games from other police teams in the valley.

Some months ago Sergeant Hanley was taken seriously ill and removed to the Benedictine Hospital where he remained for some time and apparently was recovering from his illness when he returned to his home. Several days ago his condition became so serious that hopes for his recovery were abandoned.

Sergeant Hanley is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hanley of this city, his wife, Elizabeth; two daughters, Eleanor, wife of Howard Wood, and Mary Hanley; three sons, Edward, William F., Jr., and Robert Hanley, and three sisters, Esther, wife of Policeman Charles Murphy, and the Misses Isabel and Gertrude Hanley, all of this city.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

President Will Witness Roundup

Cowboys, Cowgirls, and Indians All Scheduled to Perform for the President and His Wife Today—Attends Famous Roundup at Bellefourche.

Bellefourche, S. D., July 5 (AP).—The west drew its most exciting offering for President Coolidge today.

With Mrs. Coolidge and a party of twenty-five, the president was to witness the Bellefourche roundup, a spectacle of western skill and daring of which he had heretofore never known except in the movies and perhaps an occasional "wild west" circus.

Here, in a natural setting, cowboys poured in from the surrounding country to restage an event which a decade ago brought them their single yearly diversion from lonesome days of watching cattle and dreary winter nights when blizzards hedged them from their nearest neighbors, often 50 miles away.

In expectation of this visit by such distinguished guests, the roundup city was astir with its own responsibility and with thousands of visitors who had been flocking in during the last few days. In the big enclosure where the roundup is staged, flags floated from a special stand erected for the President and his party and the town was in gala colors waving over streets where cowboys, cowgirls and Indians in the clothes of the early west rode on spirited ponies.

The program called for a parade around the rodeo grounds as soon as the President and Mrs. Coolidge had been escorted to their stand. It was to be led by 100 Sioux Indians in war paint and feathers, followed by the performing cowboys, cowgirls, trick riders, steer wrestlers and trick ropers. Just before the broncho busting, steer roping and wild horse racing take place, the Indian band will rush into the arena with a savage yell and go through a series of their old time war dances.

At the end of the program was the feature of the day—a wild horse race in which horses never before ridden or halter-broken were entered.

THIEVES STEAL WHEELS AND TIRE AT HURLEY.

Vernon G. Lockwood of Hurley reported to Sheriff Rice that Saturday night or early Sunday morning someone had entered his garage and removed two front wheels and a spare tire from his Ford car. A couple of saws were also taken. The case is being investigated.

Trouble Over a Fake Firecracker

It Led to Arrest of Abram Ginsburg On Charge of Assaulting Special Officer Beardsley and Taking His Club From Him—Other Police Court Cases.

Abram Ginsburg, 30 years old, of 4 West Union street in police court today entered a plea of not guilty to assaulting Special Officer Marion Beardsley at Hasbrouck Park on Monday afternoon, and the hearing was adjourned to July 13. Max Wachtel of 132 Hasbrouck avenue arrested at the same time on a charge of interfering with Officer Beardsley in the performance of his duties, and his hearing adjourned to July 7.

According to Offices Beardsley, he was assigned to duty at Hasbrouck Park on the fourth of July. He is a slight built man of mature years and has done special duty for from time to time for the police department. A picnic was being held at the park that afternoon when Ginsburg appeared on the grounds carrying what appeared to be a mammoth firecracker—it later proved to be only an imitation one—and went through the motions of setting it off.

Some of the women who had small children on the ground became frightened and appealed to Officer Beardsley to prevent Ginsburg from discharging the firecracker. The officer informed Ginsburg that he would not be allowed to fire it off owing to the danger, and in the argument that followed Beardsley claims Ginsburg, who is considerably younger, struck him on the nose. The officer then pulled his club, which he says Ginsburg took away from him.

Then, according to Beardsley, he pulled a gun and Ginsburg wilted and submitted to being placed under arrest.

Intoxication Cases.

Thomas Corcoran of Brooklyn, arrested for public intoxication at the West Shore station, paid a $5 fine.

Frank Dulsie, picked up on Wall street on Sunday for his own protection, was given a suspended sentence. He said he worked at Ruby. He was badly battered about the face. He was given a suspended sentence.

Frank Carle of Greenkill avenue, arrested for public intoxication, was fined $5. The same disposition was made of the case of George Hanford, arrested for the same offense.

Sentence Suspended.

Frederick Zates of 49 Cedar street, arrested Monday evening for driving a car on Broadway without the proper license papers, received a suspended sentence.

Tourists Forfeit Bail.

Angelo Sansone of Yonkers, charged with speeding 40 miles an hour, forfeited $25 cash bail; William A. Cogan of Astoria, charged with speeding 32 miles an hour, forfeited $15 cash bail.

Wilson N. Lorenzen of Brooklyn, charged with parking his car in the center of Wall street Saturday night, blocking all traffic, forfeited $10 cash bail.

Henry J. Snee of New York city, charged with running without lights on his car Sunday morning, forfeited $10 cash bail.

Other Cases.

Gordon W. Fitzgerald of Albany avenue, arrested for speeding 40 miles an hour on Monday evening, was fined $20.

Charles A. Okskirch of R. F. D. No. 1, charged with driving his car on the left side of Broadway, furnished cash bail for his appearance later.

U. S. Submits New Cruiser Figures

American Delegates Understood to Have Suggested a Tonnage Total of 400,000 for Cruisers—New Suggestion a Compromise With Great Britain.

Geneva, July 5 (AP).—The American delegation submitted new total tonnage figures for cruisers at today's secret session of the experts of the tri-partite naval conference.

Although official confirmation is lacking, it is understood that the United States, in a spirit of compromise and in a genuine attempt to meet Great Britain's expressed needs in cruisers, has suggested an increase in the maximum tonnage for Great Britain and the United States so that the total would be in the neighborhood of 400,000 tons.

This is 100,000 tons more than was indicated in the original American maximum proposal, and roughly corresponds to the existing strength of the British cruiser fleet.

The experts adjourned to permit the British and Japanese plenipotentiaries to study the new proposal from a political viewpoint.

It is deemed doubtful that the Americans would sign a treaty calling for a cruiser tonnage higher than their new maximum, as this, it is thought would be regarded by public opinion as augmentation instead of limitation.

Indications are that the Japanese request for an unrestricted number of small submarines will be refused, and that Japan must content herself with a slightly increased submarine tonnage, though within the maximum total suggested by the United States.

Two Boys Killed By Auto at Milton

Were Walking Along Highway With Their Mother When Pelham Manor Motorist Struck Them—Mother Expected to Die—Motorist Charged With Manslaughter.

Fred Cheekley, 14 years old, was instantly killed Monday morning while walking along the state highway a mile north of Milton. James Cheekley, 15, a brother, died later at St. Lukes' Hospital, Newburgh, and their mother, Ella Cheekley, is expected to die as a result of the injuries sustained when a car driven by Sebastian Joseph Fisher of Pelham Manor ran into the group of three as they walked along the road Monday morning about 6 10 o'clock.

The mother and two sons, who came from Troy, were walking south along the road en route to Milton where they expected to obtain work. They had walked from Troy and had spent Sunday night at Highland. Early Monday morning they started out to complete their journey. When about a mile north of Milton, on a curve, they were struck by the car which was proceeding north.

Driver and Witness Arrested.

Corporal Baker, who was on motorcycle patrol at that point, was on the scene immediately an dplaced Fisher under arrest. He also took into custody Thomas Lahey of Pelham Manor and the two were brought to the Ulster county jail. Lahey was held as a material witness.

Traffic was heavy and within a few minutes there were cars stalled for a distance of a mile or more. Corporal Baker was compelled to call for assistance to get the traffic moving and to permit the removal of the dead and injured to Newburgh.

Mother Without Funds.

Mrs. Cheekley was without funds. Later Fisher was visited at the jail by his father and brother and Mr. Fisher said he would go to Newburgh and give any assistance he could to Mrs. Cheekley and if necessary he would make arrangements for the burial of the two sons.

Sebastian J. Fisher, the young man who drove the car, is 25 years old and appeared to be deeply affected by the accident.

Following the accident Fisher was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Martin at Milton and held on a charge of manslaughter.

Convicts Watch Youths Drown

Guards Prevent Sing Sing Inmates from Going to Rescue—Warden Lawes Defends Guards' Action—Identity of Youths Unknown.

Ossining, N. Y., July 5 (AP).—Held in their prison yard by the leveled guns of guards, 1,200 convicts at Sing Sing prison were forced to stand helplessly by while three youths in a canoe drowned in the swirling waters of the Hudson, not far away.

Many clamored and pleaded for permission to go to the rescue, but the guards, who feared the men might take advantage of the opportunity to escape, threatened to shoot the first man who tried to scale the fence.

The canoe, a lunch basket and several other articles were recovered later and are the only tangible clues to the victims' identity. The craft bore the number, "63,777-17". The basket was marked "J. H. A., New York."

A canoe race had been held at Cruger's Point, several miles above here, Sunday, and one of the craft similar to the recovered boat, was seen yesterday headed down the river. Its occupants were not known.

The convicts were having their early morning exercise when the accident occurred. A 12 foot iron bar fence separates the prison yard from the river and through this the men peered at the drowning struggles of the boys.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes defended the action of the guards. He pointed out that only a few weeks ago a prisoner had pleaded for a chance to rescue another convict who supposedly had fallen into the water. When the "drowning" man was pulled out, he was found supported by two inner tire tubes, Warden Lawes declared, and it later developed the two men were brothers.

The warden nevertheless expressed regret that he had not been present when the youths were struggling for life as he would have had the authority to allow a volunteer convict to attempt a rescue.

Cornell Hose Block Party.

The committee which is preparing for the block party to be held under the auspices of Cornell Hose Company, No. 2, on Monday, July 11, will meet tonight at the club rooms of the organization. Many features are being arranged for the party. John F. Erne's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing to be held amid the decorations to be arranged by the firemen.

Jail Sentence for Gun Toter.

Joseph Dagarlia of New Paltz was committed to the Ulster county jail for 90 days Saturday by Justice of the Peace Brown on a charge of carrying concealed weapons.

Kingston's Celebration Postponed to Sept. 10

Sesqui-Centennial of Inauguration of Governor Clinton and Adoption of First Constitution, as Part of State Program, Changed from July 30 in Order That Governor Smith May be Here.

In order to assure the attendance of Governor Alfred E. Smith at the sesqui-centennial celebration of the inauguration of Governor Clinton and the adoption of the First Constitution at Kingston, Mayor Dempsey's committee on plan and scope have agreed with the Department of Education that in view of the convention of the governors of all the forty-eight states of the Union, to be held at Detroit on the 30th of July, the date originally fixed for the sesqui-centennial celebration, to adjourn the ceremonies until the 10th day of September, the sesqui-centennial of the anniversary at Kingston of the first meeting of the Legislature under the Constitution.

The invitation to Governor Smith to deliver the address here on the 30th of July was accepted in March. Since that time, a convention of the governors of all the states to be held at Detroit on that day has been made. The Department of Education suggested to the sesqui-centennial committee oppointed by Mayor Dempsey that in view of Governor Smith's desire to attend the gubernatorial convention to be held at Detroit, it might be well to secure the presence here of one of the former governors of the state to deliver the address, which it was proposed to have Governor Smith deliver.

Local Committee Wants Smith.

The Kingston sesqui-centennial committee, however, declined to consider this proposition. They thought it would deprive the ceremonies here of the distinction and dignity which the occasion demanded and insisted that the present governor of the state should be the principal figure at the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the inauguration of his great predecessor, and that it would be a gracious and graceful thing for the local committee to release the governor from attendance at Kingston on the 30th of July. Accordingly Judge Clearwater, chairman of the committee, wrote Governor Smith that in view of the Detroit convention, they would postpone the Kingston celebration until the anniversary of the meeting of the first Legislature.

No Conflict With Saratoga.

The committee would have preferred the 16th of October, the anniversary of the burning of Kingston by the British forces under General John Vaughan because of the patriotism of its people in extending their hospitality to the Committee of Safety, the first Legislature, the first session of the Supreme court held under the Constitution, the members of the Constitutional Convention who framed and adopted the Constitution and the inauguration of the first governor, but found that would interfere with the sesqui-centennial celebration of the battle of Saratoga and the surrender of Burgoyne on the 17th and 18th of October. Therefore, they cancelled all arrangements which have been made for the 30th of July.

BOSTON COMMON TURNED OVER TO THE PEDDLERS.

Boston, July 5 (AP).—For the first time in 20 years concessionaries hawked their wares on the city's most historic ground yesterday, and today the guns of the Boston Common Society were turned on the municipal administration whose action in issuing the licenses was termed a "disgrace".

The Common was turned temporarily into a vast fair grounds. An army of vendors of popcorn, soft drinks, balloons and other articles usually associated with a circus midway pushed their way through the crowd while policemen gave up the task of ascertaining who had permits.

Edward A. Horton, president of the society, declared the situation was "indicative of graft" no matter what explanations might be offered by officials responsible for the "disgrace".

The Common today presented an unaccustomed appearance with thousands of containers, papers and other rubbish littered over its grass.

COLLISION CAUSES AUTO TO OVERTURN.

A Cadillac sedan driven by a woman and occupied by several persons tipped over at Shokan Saturday. No one was injured and after the car had been placed again on its wheels it proceeded. The Cadillac was forced off the road when another car suddenly turned off the boulevard into a dirt road. In turning to avoid a collision, the Cadillac was driven in the ditch and turned over.

Arrest Follows Stabbing Affray

Fourth of July Cutting at Goldrick's Landing May Result Fatally—Alleged Assailant Arrested by State Troopers at Rhinebeck Ferry House.

Webster Hill was brought to the Kingston City Hospital early Monday evening with stab wounds which will probably prove fatal. Three hours later the man who it is alleged did the cutting was behind the bars in the Ulster county jail. It is alleged that Len Logan, colored, and Hill became involved in a quarrel which resulted in Logan stabbing Hill with a knife. There is a deep wound in Hill's back and several minor stab wounds about the body. His condition was very weak and there is doubt as to whether he will recover. Logan is being held pending the outcome of the wounds.

At the hospital Hill said Logan did the cutting and the latter was arrested at the Rhinebeck ferry house by State Troopers Martin and Coons. The Troopers, after a busy day, arrived at the Ulster county court house about 10 o'clock Monday evening and while in a restaurant eating were notified that there had been a cutting at Goldrick's Landing. They started off to investigate.

Arrested at Ferry House.

Troopers Martin and Coons immediately went to Goldrick's Landing, where they searched for Logan in his usual place of abode. Not finding him there, they started back to Kingston and on the way decided to stop at the Rhinebeck ferry house to determine if a man answering Logan's description had been seen there as it was supposed Logan would make an effort to get across the river. At the ferry house was a man who answered the description. When accosted by Trooper Martin he admitted that he was Len Logan and a few minutes later he was in jail.

Logan is a big man and the Troopers after placing him under arrest placed handcuffs on him to prevent any attempt at escaping. However, he accompanied the Troopers to jail in a peaceful manner. He is being held on a charge of assault, second degree, should Hill recover; if Hill dies the charge will be manslaughter.

Busy Day for Troopers.

Troopers Martin and Coons were stationed at East Kingston during the day and found the Fourth of July a busy time in that section. Commencing work at 6 o'clock Monday morning they patroled the East Kingston and Saugerties road section of the county, making forty arrests during the day, principally on charges of reckless driving.

At 1:30 o'clock this morning Troopers Martin and Coons returned to East Kingston after over 19 hours' continuous duty.

Bishop Knocked Down by Auto

Newkirk Avenue Man Employed on One of City Ash Wagons in City Hospital With Possible Fractured Skull and Other Injuries.

Edward Bishop of Newkirk avenue, employed on one of the city ash wagons, was knocked down by the automobile of Joseph Stilz of West New York on Clinton avenue, near the Stuyvesant Garage, at 11:45 o'clock this morning and seriously injured.

At the Kingston City Hospital where Bishop was taken, it was found by Dr. Frank A. Johnston that the injured man had sustained a possible fracture of the skull, a broken nose and other injuries. His condition is serious.

According to Mr. Stilz's report of the accident to the police, he was driving along Clinton avenue when Bishop stepped out from behind the ash wagon into the path of the car and was knocked down.

Bishop is the man who was bitten in the face a few weeks ago by a dog.

Jailed for Intoxication.

Martin Maloney was given thirty days in the county jail by Justice of the Peace D. S. Hutchins at Marlborough for public intoxication. The same Justice committed Joseph Connelly to jail for 30 days for the same offense.

Werner's Chickens Stolen.

Samuel Werner of 7 Ulster avenue reported to the police Monday that some time Sunday night some one had entered his chicken coop and stolen twenty chickens.

New Maccabee Temple at Detroit

Detroit, July 5.—Five thousand Maccabees from all over the society's international jurisdiction will gather in Detroit July 23 for the dedication of the new $2,500,000 Maccabee Temple and international headquarters. Delegations will make the pilgrimage to Detroit from every state and province of Canada in special cars and automobile caravans.

The dedication celebration will take up three days, July 21 to 23, and will be witnessed by many national and state officials who are members of the order and officials of other fraternal associations. Governor Fred W. Green of Michigan and Supreme Commander A. W. Frye will deliver the principal speeches. Maccabee drill teams from many cities will take part in exhibition drills during the three days' celebration, and a mammoth automobile parade five miles long will tour the city. The ceremonies will be broadcasted over Station WGHP.

The Maccabees was organized in London, Ontario, in 1878. It spread to the United States and was reorganized with headquarters at Port Huron, Mich., in 1838, and headquarters were moved to Detroit in 1908. Ground was broken for the new temple December 29, 1925. It is said to be the most beautiful office building in Detroit and the finest home office owned by any fraternal benefit society in the world.

The year 1926 was the most successful in the order's history, according to the report which will be made by Supreme Commander Frye, when the membership was increased to a quarter of a million and assets to $34,000,000. The Maccabees is the second oldest fraternal benefit association in America and is financially the strongest. Its membership includes men, women and the children of members and it has 5,000 lodges throughout the country.

Quite a number of Modena people attended the pageant at Kingston Thursday.

Howard Bennett, Lester Wager, Philip Jenkins and Homer Paltridge went to Highland Wednesday to see the boat races.

Saturday evening, July 9, there will be literary and musical program at the Grange Hall at Plattekill in charge of Miss Dorothy Powell and Mrs. Wilbur J. Van Wyck. Refreshment committee: Mr. and Mrs. William Nabor, Ernest Waite, Mr. and Mrs. James Dayton, Charles Dayton, Mr. and Mrs. John Neuwirth and Edward Neuwirth.

The annual fair of the Methodist Church, conducted under auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, will be held Tuesday afternoon and evening, July 26. Fancy work, aprons, candy and rugs will be on sale at booths. Refreshments will be obtainable and supper served from 5:30 until all are served. Mrs. Blakely and orchestra of Highland will furnish music in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Hartney of New York city visited Edward Hartney at his home here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Shultis, Myron Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Seymour and Florence O'Neil were visitors in Kingston Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Harcourt visited Mr. and Mrs. Brandt at Gardiner last week.

Elmer Snyder of Newburgh, a representative of Spear & Co., of New York, was a caller on friends here Friday.

Miss Laura Alsdorf, who has been teaching school at Mamaroneck, is home during summer vacation.

Miss Ruth Paltridge has accepted a position to teach at Highland High School at the opening of the fall season.

First Secretary of State

Thomas Jefferson was chosen by President Washington to be secretary of state or secretary of foreign affairs in the first cabinet. But Jefferson was still in France when the new government began to function. John Jay was secretary of foreign affairs under the articles of confederation and acted as secretary of state at Washington's request, until Jefferson's arrival in March, 1790.

Hunt Two Years for Seven Heirs to $38.83

Redding, Calif.—Seven cousins of the late Albert H. Shawn, a blacksmith who died in Cottonwood in February, 1925, will share equally in the distribution of the estate valued at $38.83. It took the attorney for the estate two years to locate the seven cousins in Litchfield, Ill. Each of them will now receive a check for a little more than $5.

KILL POLISH POET FOR USING RADIO

Assaulted by Peasants for Owning "Devil Box."

London.—A young Polish poet, Savicki by name, carved his name in history by becoming the first radio martyr. Savicki is dead, alleged to have been lynched by an ignorant Polish peasantry for listening in.

Young Savicki, who is a rich landowner as well as a poet, has until recently lived in Warsaw, but growing tired of city life withdrew to a remote estate in Poland. He took with him a radio set with which to keep in touch with the main stations of Europe. By degrees the Polish peasants grew suspicious as they realized that Savicki was sucking music out of the sky.

For several nights the peasants stole around his cottage as Savicki tuned in. Through the panes of thick glass they caught the strains of the American jazz band playing in the foyer of the Savoy hotel in London. Anger mingled with superstition when they attributed the continual rains and agricultural poverty to heaven's wrath at Savicki and his "devil box."

On Sunday every Polish peasant in the vicinity went to midnight mass before setting to what, it is said, they agreed to do. Leaving church, it is alleged, they stole to Savicki's cottage and surrounded it. He was at it again, they found, and the saucy tune of the charleston from the London ballroom exasperated their senses.

It is reported they smashed the door, grabbed at Savicki, while others hacked at the radio set and banished the music from the air.

Streaming with blood from a score of wounds and apparently lifeless, Savicki was left on the floor of his cottage with his blood-stained broken toy beside him. He died a few days later.

Woman With Crucifix Routs Assailant in Home

Philadelphia.—A glass crucifix in the hands of the wife of an American marine now on duty at Shanghai, China, sent an intruder plunging through a window in the home of Mrs. Stella Lis, recently, after he had tried to attack her as she slept.

Mrs. Lis awoke when some one grabbed her waist and turned a flashlight on her. Springing up, she seized the crucifix, smashed it over the assailant's head and with the aid of her teeth and fists drove him from the dwelling while three of her children cowered nearby. The intruder had hit her thirteen-year-old son a hard blow on the mouth when he sought to interfere.

Mrs. Lis' elder son and a boarder, aroused by the scuffle, ran to her room and began a vain search for the man. She discovered he had taken $24 from her purse before trying to attack her.

Patient Is Boiled to Death in Hospital Bath

Harbin, Manchuria.—A Russian ex-policeman was boiled to death in his bath at the Chinese Eastern Railway's Central hospital here.

The Russian, an inmate of the lunatic ward in the hospital, was suffering from progressive paralysis of the spine. An attendant took him for his bath, found the tub empty and turned on the hot water faucet. Just then another patient called the attendant, who returned half an hour later to find the ex-policeman boiling to death in a tub of steamy water.

The lunatic resisted strongly when the attendant tried to drag him from the tub. Physicians said the man's disease had destroyed his power of feeling and that presumably the steaming water fascinated him. The patient died a few hours after being taken from the boiling bathtub.

Flocks of Wild Pigeons Devast Young Oat Fields

Longview, Wash.—Large flocks of wild pigeons are devastating young oat fields at La Gamas, farmers of that region complain. One grower reported by long-distance telephone that the pigeons were so numerous on his farm they literally covered the ground. The flights of birds appear to have come from central Oregon, possibly flocks which are far off their usual course by influence of heavy storms. Wild pigeons are rarely seen along the Pacific coast in numbers. They are en route to Alberta or Saskatchewan for summer nesting.

Caterpillars Are Injuring Pines

Dr. E. P. Felt, state entomologist, of the New York State Museum at Albany, states that reports from the Champlain valley, especially Peru, and from Plattsburg south to Keeseville, indicate a general prevalence of greenish false caterpillars upon hard pine. These pests feed in clusters, frequently strip branches, occasionally entire trees, and more rarely are destructive over extended areas, as seems to be the case in the vicinity of Keeseville.

The fir saw-fly, a dark green, dark-striped caterpillar about one-half of an inch long when fully grown, feeds upon fir, spruce and pitch pine in midsummer and probably appears as a second brood in late summer or early fall. There are two other pine saw-fly caterpillars feeding upon pines; one, red-headed, dirty yellowish, black-spotted and about one inch long when fully grown, and the other black-headed, black-spotted and nearly as long when fully developed. These are known as LeConte's saw-fly and Abbott's saw-fly in honor of the men who first discovered them.

The saw-fly caterpillars are voracious feeders. They grow rapidly and soon disappear. They usually work at the tips of the branches and consequently the feeding is conspicuous. They can be destroyed by spraying with a poison, such as arsenate of lead, used at the rate of 2 pounds of the powder to 50 gallons of water. This is practical, however, only in the case of the more highly valued trees in parks and on lawns. Saw-fly caterpillars, like a number of other pests, appear in large numbers at irregular intervals and ordinarily can not be controlled by direct remedial measures.

Feeling Like a Lord

I have a cottage in Colebrook row, Islington. A cottage, for it is detach'd; a white house, with six good rooms; the New river (rather elderly by this time) runs (if a moderate walking pace can be so termed) close to the foot of the house; and behind is a spacious garden, with vines (I assure you), pears, strawberries, parsnips, leeks, carrots, cabbages, to delight the heart of old Alcinous. You enter without passage into a cheerful dining room, all studded over and rough with old books, and above is a lightsome drawing room, three windows, full of choice prints. I feel like a great lord, never having had a house before.—From "Letters to Barton, 1823," by Charles Lamb.

Wonderful Alpha Rays

The Alpha rays from radioactive matter, it appears, consist of veritable atoms of matter projected at a speed averaging 6,000 miles a second. It is the great energy of motion of these swiftly expelled masses that gives rise to the heating effect of radium. Yet they do not go far. The swiftest alpha particle travels seven centimeters in air, under ordinary conditions, before it is stopped. But on its way it plunges straight through every molecule in its path, producing positively and negatively charged ions in the process. On an average, an alpha particle, before its career of violence is stopped, breaks up about 100,000 molecules.—Washington Star.

His Own Religion

I often wonder at religious men, they have such varying ideas on the subject. I was talking lately with a prominent man—one whose name is really a household word—and he said: "I was brought up in a religious family. I have chosen to accept religion in my own way, but never bother others with it. I have no desire to convert the world. I wouldn't give a d—n to convert anybody tomorrow."—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Feminine Things Have Preference

Masculine Influence Wanes, According to Authority on Fashions.

By far the most important development in the styles of the present season is the tendency to return to feminine things. This may have been vaguely suspected a season ago, but only since a month or two has it actually come to be noticeable.

The masculine influence has gone to the limit. Women have so imitated men that if they were one step further they would wear trousers and put feminine styles out of existence, declares a prominent fashion authority in the Detroit Free Press.

The feminine note is apparent in the abundance of lighter tissues that are being used, in the return of great quantities of extremely decollete gowns of mousseline de soie, in the return of tulle and the restoration of innumerable floating skirt effects.

The extremely narrow skirt, the extremely flesh-colored hose, the extremely low shoes—nearly all the extremes, in fact—have been introduced for evening wear. It is a sort of habit among the creators of Paris fashions to make their novelty's debut in the lights of the evening. A thing which might by daylight seem quite eccentric at first seems comparatively inconspicuous by night. Many evening gowns of vegetable velvet will be seen, and next season it will be used according to the success it enjoys.

There is very little change in the dresses of this season. The couturier is working with little that is actually new, which is wonderful, but the modiste who makes hats is more wonderful still, as she is making something out of nothing. With nothing fundamentally new, she seems always to be making something new!

Simplicity is what the well-dressed woman must seek. The thing that constitutes a "chic" woman is not to be named.

Women must bear in mind that there is no little thing about her "toilette"—that they are all big things, or, at least, they are all of equal importance. A dress should have a special pair of shoes nowadays. Mixing each day's costume to the point of destroying the possibility for originality and distinction to exist is as passe as the horse and buggy. The woman who can have each costume complete in itself with special accessories is sure to have it if she has the gift of taste. Certain problems are immediately presented by this proposition for those of modest means.

Kasha Lined Raincoats Liked by Paris Women

Parisian women, who always have hated showers as unfashionable, are beginning to learn how to protect themselves against rain and still appear attractive.

They have taken suddenly to mackintoshes, and on wet days the smart French women sally forth wearing their raincoats with as much pleasure as they wear evening wraps. Paris designers have turned their attention to this particular garment.

On wet days the streets of Paris are as bright as tulip beds with many colored raincoats. Rainy weather costumes formerly were of colored leather. The new raincoats now are made with kasha or light weight wool linings so that they replace other coats on showery, cool days.

Costume Jewelry Pays Homage to Aviation—Designs, No Matter What Their Theme, Are Striking in Color and Character.

New York.—Considerable criticism may be leveled at the practice, particularly among the young, of playing follow the leader in fashion, but, for all that, there is no dearth of novelty in accessories, especially in costume jewelry.

Not so long ago every one was content with a string of pearls for a necklace. Then came the vogue of the choker, also of pearls. Now one sees, even among the relatively inexpensive necklace, a reaching out for beauty of design, and a feeling for individuality and for color.

Paris has gone back to gold jewelry and continues to mount in gold, as well as to use this precious metal without further embellishment. There is a movement toward getting back to long chains, although this has met with success so far only in pearls or in beaded effects. Necklaces of three strands are deemed elegant at the moment and have ornamental bars studded or chased, or bars of what passes for a brilliant gem.

Of couse, everything is sprouting wings, as a tribute to the triumphs of the air, and all sorts of winged pins for every purpose from a brooch to a hat ornament are flying into favor.

It is more the fashion to wear one large—one might say, massive—ring, rather than several small ones. The best-dressed women have daytime and evening rings—bracelets too, for that matter. It is still the mode to match up one's jewels. Earrings and necklaces are so closely associated that it is of the utmost importance that they have a close kinship.

Trace Wedding Cake to Old Roman Custom

The wedding cake is believed to be the survival of an old Roman practice when the bride and groom not only ate together as a sign of their kinship and mutual love, but feasted the guests as well. At this time it was good etiquette to break the cake over the bride's head as a sign of plentifulness. In the marriage ceremonies of the early Anglo-Saxons huge baskets of dry crackers were employed. After the feast each guest took a cracker home with him and the remainder was distributed to the poor. "Later it became the custom for the guests themselves to bring to the wedding small, richly spiced buns, which were piled in one huge mound on the table. It was a common occurrence for the bride and groom to attempt to kiss each other over this mound, and if they succeeded they were assured lifelong prosperity." It is said the wedding cake of today is due to the genius of a French cook, who, while traveling in England, observed the inconvenience of stacking hundreds of these small cakes in a mound and conceived the idea of cementing the mound into a single huge cake with icing. At the wedding feast it was the duty of the newly married man to wait on his bride at the table, whence came the name bridegroom—signifying one who serves the bride.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

THE SLEEVELESS DRESS IS POPULAR FOR TENNIS—AIRPLANE MOTIFS APPEAR ON SPORTS CLOTHES

New York—There is an excellent reason for the sleeveless tennis dress, a reason that has little to do with style. Tennis is an exceedingly fashionable pastime, as well as fun and excellent exercise. The modern girl should plan to have at least one dress in which she may present a creditable appearance on the courts.

White is traditional for tennis. It invariably is chosen for tournament wear, and is usually regarded as smartest on the courts at any time. Golf seems to reverse this decision. Clothes in bright colors are infinitely more effective than white on the links.

Just now smart sports clothes, and others not so smart, are being designed with airplane motifs and insignias, inspired by the recent conquests of the air. After all, an airplane is as decorative as an automobile on one's shoulder or chest. It is not difficult to remember that these were worn last season, varied by animal and human motifs that were nothing if not amusing or eccentric.

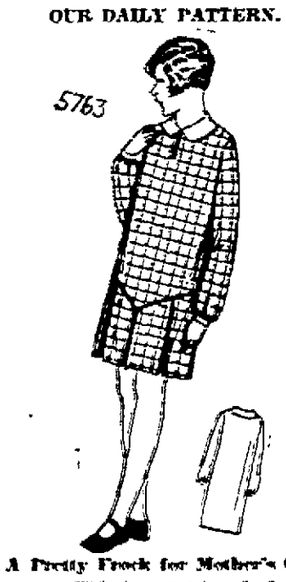

A White Crepe Resort Frock Has a Novel Arrangement of Belts, Each Piped in Green Georgette to Match the Collar, Which Is Draped and Prolonged as a Scarf.

The sports costume in the accompanying sketch has original belting and collar ideas, for the collar, which apes a bandanna from one angle, elongates itself into a scarf from another. White is worn more this summer than for several seasons, although it is nearly always enlivened by color—green, in this instance.

Speaking of color, did you know that a certain enterprising silk concern has launched five colors, namely Lindy rose, Irish mist, St. Louis gray, Vive la France, and Independence blue. No need to question their inspiration. The first is symbolic of the roseate dreams of youth; Irish mist, the first glimpse of green; St. Louis gray, the spirit of adventure; Vive la France, the lavender of its fleur de lis; and Independence blue, the blue of the United States flag and of the tri-color.

HINTS AND THINGS

Sauerkraut has become a most important food. We learn that eaten uncooked it prevents autointoxication, that is, that it prevents the growth of harmful bacteria in the alimentary canal. Its acids act somewhat like a disinfectant in one's intestines and so promotes internal cleanliness.

Some writers tell us that sauerkraut relieves sufferers from diabetes, obesity, lumbago, flatulency and gastritis; in fact it is almost a cure-all food—as near as any food can be.

Sauerkraut is a remarkable palatable medicine to be recommended for seasickness, dyspepsia, dizziness and even some skin troubles. Given for lack of appetite and nausea, it seems to settle the stomach and spur the appetite. The tests of different ways of caring for sauerkraut tell us that either canned or in bulk it has equal virtue. The juice of the kraut itself is a wonderful preservative and when kept cold and above freezing can be kept for months. When prepared from good solid heads it may be shredded very fine, this is the test for the best kraut, as well as flavor, tenderness, amount of water and color.

Sauerkraut if sour should be well washed before cooking. If in bulk and it is losing its moisture, a salt solution should be added to it. Sauerkraut is more wholesome and digestible uncooked than cooked, as is fresh cabbage. However, many enjoy the kraut cooked in various ways with meat. When sauerkraut is fried it is especially good, eaten uncooked, of course.

In many homes and hospitals the kraut water is given as a tonic and appetizer and if one likes kraut, it will be no hardship, rather a pleasure to take. It is considered one of the best blood tonics. With all that has been said about this wonderful food it should grow in popularity.

Serve spinach well seasoned and sprinkled with buttered crumbs.

Put the last few tablespoonfuls of horseradish into the pickle jar.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JULY 5, 1927.

Great misfortune comes upon a New York millionaire. Leaving his palatial apartment on Fifth avenue, for his summer place in Rhode Island, he hears that it is a scene of devastation. Everything in it has been wrecked. Beer bottles have been hurled through $100,000 paintings. Gobelin tapestries have been torn from the walls. Crystal chandeliers have been shattered and costly furniture broken, and a fine pipe organ is smashed. The damage is estimated at a quarter of a million dollars. The explanation is that the wrecking was done by employes enraged because the millionaire and his wife hadn't given them larger tips. Herein we may see the evil of tipping—or not tipping.

THE REAL VICTORY.

The little town of Congress, O., turned out in a body the other day to welcome home its local hero, 13-year-old Dean Lucas, who had just won the national spelling contest in Washington, D. C.

There is one interesting fact about the boy's success that deserves special mention. He was in the national contest in 1926, and was defeated. Spelling had always been easy for him. That is, he had learned the words in the spelling books without difficulty. But he failed in the contest when the announcer began calling words that weren't in those books. Young Lucas went home not the least bit disheartened, taking with him the lesson of his failure. He quit mastering spelling books and tackled the dictionary.

Probably winning the national spelling contest isn't nearly so valuable or important to him as the reasons for his success—that he knew why he was beaten the first time and overcame that weakness the second time. That was his real victory.

ART IN MEN'S CLOTHES.

French artists have undertaken to beautify men's clothes and have opened a Salon de la Mode Masculine for that praiseworthy purpose. Any he-American may well hesitate to go ahead and tell right out in public what they're plotting to do. Listen: "Coats are to be snug at the waist, full as to skirt, and flowing in line. Trousers are to be amputated at the knee to supplant the current inconvenient, ugly and deceptive style, which dissembles the harmonious line of the leg. The hat for such a costume must be wide-brimmed and cavalier in cut." That is only part of it, but enough.

Knee breeches are all right for the trenches or the golf links or the woods, but most of us in this country are willing to stop there. The very reason given by the Parisian artists for reviving the old knickerbocker style for social use will horrify many an American, who is glad of a little "deception" and "dissembling" in regard to his nether extremities. Truth to tell, knee-length skirts have been somewhat disillusioning, and males naturally shrink from such revelations as are made on all sides by the more daring sex. Some of us simply dote on dissembling the "harmonious line of the leg," for reasons not obvious but sufficient. It is enough to have to expose one's unshapeliness in a bathing suit, without parading it before the world at dress affairs.

As for the "wide-brimmed and cavalier" hat, it sounds more fearsome to timid males than a three-gallon silk hat. Frankly, limp straws or caps would be better.

The neckwear those feed artists propose is too alarming to mention in a country where women read the newspapers and then tell their husbands how to dress.

CITIZENSHIP REQUIREMENTS.

Ronika Schwimmer, a Hungarian, has been denied American citizenship. She may be remembered as the woman who organized the Ford peace expedition during the war, and went along as a sort of tutor for Mr. Ford. Maybe she doesn't deserve citizenship, but some of the reasons given for refusing it are curious.

The naturalization officials, it appears, object to her views on "pacifism, internationalism, pacifism and other questions." Asked whether she would be willing to take up arms in defense of the United States, she answered "not personally", and explained that she understood women were not required to bear arms for any country. The naturalization officials apparently didn't like her attitude on that. And they may have been right—though as a matter of fact, do we want our women citizens, whether native or foreign-born, to bear arms? And do we or don't we want peace rather than war? We're planning more radical peace treaties right now.

It was also stated that she had expressed herself as an atheist in a lecture in New York, and in a letter to the naturalization director had insisted that religion was a private matter. Most of us don't approve of atheism. But most of us agree that whether a citizen has one religion or another, or none at all, is that citizen's own business, provided he doesn't try to force his views on his fellow-citizens. The Constitution is supposed to forbid religious requirements for citizenship. It may be recalled, too, that some of the leading signers of the United States Constitution were regarded as atheists.

This is no plea for Rosika Schwimmer. She may be undesirable as a citizen because of trouble-making propensities of one kind or another. But the published objections to her do not sound entirely convincing to some old-fashioned Americans.

Be it observed, too, that Mme. Schwimmer was turned down in Chicago. Citizenship requirements must be higher there than outsiders have supposed, although comparing record for record and utterance for utterance, some impertinent critics may have the nerve to wonder whether Chicago's mayor would get by if he were a candidate for citizenship.

BRIEFS FROM BILLVILLE

It's all right to run for office—if you get tired in time to quit before you have to.

It isn't exactly a devil of a world just because some folks say they have a h—l of a time in it.

Man has succeeded in conquering the cold air, but he's still as helpless as ever against the hot.

We try to never quarrel with Trouble, but whistle on the way like we don't know he was around.

The man with the rabbit foot in his pocket but nothing in his head, never gets anywhere but away back.

The man who never fails to bring rain when he prays for it has already booked six summer engagements.

It's well we are not short on fuel, because the defeated office seekers are burning the woods to Nowhere.

Another literary barbecue is scheduled for Saturday next. Literature in our town, is a mouth-filling proposition.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY

James W. Barton, M.D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

HOT WEATHER DIET.

No matter where you live there will be periods of hot weather, and as you have to live through them, perhaps a few thoughts may be of help. Now light underwear is of course indicated because heavy underwear retains the heat in the body. That is wherein lies its value during the cold weather.

Having the home well ventilated is worth much also, because a little breeze or draught will break up the moist envelope of air that surrounds your body, and thus enable the heat to escape from your body. However, perhaps the most important point is the diet.

Some folks have an idea that they should almost abstain from eating during the hot weather. That if they do without food, they will not manufacture heat, and as the weather is hot anyway, that their body will keep warm.

Now this is a great mistake. That body of yours can only live by being warm. The tissues all need heat in order to perform their work. Any lack of heat because of thinness of blood from lack of food, is going to cause such a weakness of the body that the slightest effort as in walking, working, or playing, will bring on exhaustion.

On the other hand of course the idea of cutting down on the food intake during the hot weather is very wise. You will remember that as you are less active in the hot weather, you should cut down on your meat or eggs, which are really the repairers of worn muscle tissue. But if you go in for games and athletics in the summer, or your work is hard physically, you will need lean meat or eggs to repair muscle tissues, even during the hot weather.

During the cold weather you want the heat producing foods, that is fats, cream, milk, butter, vegetables, pork, oatmeal. In the hot weather you cut down on these foods and substitute fruits and the lighter vegetables.

Your lunch in the summer is most important.

A light lunch of a salad, whole wheat bread and fruit, with a little rest before and after eating, will not only keep you strong for your work, but enable you to withstand the heat, and will likewise permit your brain to be active enough to do your regular work.

Car Backed Into Yard, Struck Man

Anthony Prendergast Severely Injured When Car Backed Into Bench on Which He Was Sitting in Rear of His Home in Port Ewen.

Anthony Prendergast of Port Ewen is in the Benedictine Hospital, seriously injured as the result of being struck by an automobile driven by William Malia of that village, who is under arrest on a charge of operating a car without a license. This morning it was stated at the hospital that Prendergast's condition remained unchanged. Malia will be given a hearing before Judge Henry E McKenzie in Port Ewen on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

From the story as told, Mr. Prendergast was sitting on a bench in his back yard reading a newspaper Sunday when the car operated by Malia backed into the yard from the street and continued on around the house and ran into the bench, upsetting it, and then the car passed over Mr. Prendergast's body.

It is said that Malia was trying to operate the car and it evidently was placed in reversed gear, for it started backing from the street and did not stop until it had backed around the Prendergast house and into Mr. Prendergast.

Dr Voss of this city was summoned and had the injured man removed to the hospital in the city ambulance.

Heavy Traffic Over Holiday

Police Arrangements Were Such That While Thousands of Cars Passed Through Kingston Over the Fourth, No Serious Accident Occurred.

Thousands of automobiles passed through Kingston over the three-day holiday, and due to the excellent arrangements made by Chief of Police J Allan Wood, no accidents marred the occasion in this city, and traffic was handled quickly and expeditiously Policemen were stationed at busy traffic corners to direct traffic and cars were kept moving during the three days.

Traffic over the Rondout Creek Bridge was extremely heavy and there was almost a continuous stream of cars Saturday, Sunday and Monday, moving in both directions

The police blotter today contained but a few minor accidents due to cars being in collision, and in none of them were any injured and the damage to cars was slight.

We stop growing when we become satisfied with what we are.

Thousands View City Fireworks

Municipal Display in Rear of High School Monday Evening Entertained Large Throngs—Concert Preceded Display and Was Enjoyed.

The municipal fireworks display Fourth of July evening in the rear of the Kingston High School brought out a throng estimated at between six and seven thousand who greatly enjoyed the display which had been arranged by the special committee of the common council. The fireworks were preceded by a concert by the Citizens' Band in charge of Harry Maisenhelder.

The fireworks display this year had been purchased through William O'Reilly, the Broadway dealer, and was exceptionally good. There were a large number of set pieces including a picture of Colonel Lindbergh, the lone flyer, the American flag and Niagara Falls. The aerial display was also excellent.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood had a number of police and special officers on hand to care for traffic, and the police deserve great credit for handling the thousands who viewed the display.

To avoid fire danger, Chief Joseph L Murphy of the fire department had several men on duty who did patrol work, but their services were not needed.

The band concerts that preceded the fireworks was the first of a series of summer concerts arranged by the board of public works and was greatly enjoyed. The concerts hereafter will be given on the city hall lawn and today the band stand was being erected on the grounds.

Pacific Flier Forced to Return

Transoceanic Flight of Grace Ends After He Has Been in Air 51 Minutes—Plane Badly Damaged.

Mana, Hawaii, July 5 (AP).—The twisted ruins of an airplane, a broken hearted aviator and a disappointed field staff were all that remained today of the transoceanic flight project of Richard Grace, Hollywood stunt flier, who crashed to earth here yesterday shortly after taking off for a hop alone to California.

Grace was unhurt, but the plane was badly damaged. Whether another attempt will be made has not been determined.

For his third attempt the stunt flier took off at 5.24 a. m. yesterday While still near the takeoff point, and before he had headed directly westward, the tail of the monoplane was seen to flutter. Grace headed it back toward the beach runway and it nosed earthward at an alarming speed.

Survivor of 24 other air crashes, he managed to hold the monoplane under control after a fashion but it struck bushes on the edge of the field, smashing the fuselage and one wing. He had been in the air 51 minutes. The plane carried 322 gallons of gasoline and weighed more than 4,000 pounds.

Fell Asleep at Driving Wheel

Kenneth Lodle of Brooklyn is in the Kingston City Hospital with three fractured ribs and other injuries sustained Sunday night when he fell asleep at the driving wheel of his automobile and the car left the road, crashing into a wayside tree The car was wrecked. Lodle was picked up and rushed to the hospital where he is being attended by Dr. F. A. Johnston. Lodle was driving from Brooklyn to Big Indian and about midnight Sunday while on the main road between Highland and this city, he fell asleep while driving.

POUGHKEEPSIE PASSENGERS CARRIED TO RHINECLIFF

New York Central railroad officials apparently feel that there are better places to leave their passengers than Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie passengers filling almost two cars on the 7:10 New York Central train out of New York were carried past the Poughkeepsie station last Friday night and let off at Rhinecliff. Passengers said that when the train reached Poughkeepsie they found the doors of the two cars locked Frantically they searched for trainmen or conductors, they declared, but could not find them. Before they could reach a door in the cars ahead, the train was under way.

A south bound express train was ordered to stop at Rhinecliff and bring the passengers back to Poughkeepsie. They did not arrive in Poughkeepsie until after midnight.

CORNS

Stops pain in one minute

You will forget you ever had a corn one minute after you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads—that's how quick they end all pain. When the corn is gone it never comes back. If new shoes irritate the spot, a Zino-pad fixes it overnight!

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are thin, medicated, antiseptic, protective, healing. Safe, sure, quick, lasting results guaranteed. Get a box at your druggist's or shoe dealer's—35c.

Dr Scholl's Zino-pads

Put one on—the pain is gone!

Pimples all gone
Skin clear again

No wonder she smiles! Wouldn't you if you had been suffering the embarrassment of a rough, red, pimply skin and had tried one treatment after another without success—then you used Resinol Ointment and it cleared away the trouble quickly, easily and at small cost? If your skin is red and "broken out" give this healing ointment a trial.

'DEAD' TOWN NOW IS GOLD CENTER

Veteran Kept Secret for 24 Years; Now Controls Entire Strike.

Summitville, Colo.—Dead and deserted for many years, Summitville is on the golden threshold of a new birth. Its western hills again are yielding the precious metal as a result of the faith that John Pickens, veteran miner, kept secret for 24 years.

Once the outpost of an advancing gold rush, Summitville late in the last century became a thriving village of 1,500 souls, with the attendant dance halls, saloons and gambling houses.

Then came the slump. The veins "petered out." Prospectors pulled their stakes and sought richer fields, and Summitville became another of Colorado's ghost towns. Its once pretentious buildings crumpled into decay.

Veteran Absorbs Claims.

Pickens never lost faith, however, and yearly returned to the hills. For 24 years he quietly and slowly went about obtaining title to the once—and again—valuable lands. Now, with Judge Jesse C. Wiley of Del Norte, he bids fair to become this state's latest mining millionaire. Every foot of land in the famous old camp, as well as acres surrounding it, belongs to Pickens and Wiley. The new El Dorado does not bid to outsiders.

The discovery of the fabulous gold strike from which Pickens and Wiley already have received more than $100,000—259 pounds of ore paying them $16,032 at the Omaha smelter—was accidental. In 1902 while crossing a wash near the Little Annie mine, where he was employed, Pickens found a piece of ore about half the size of a man's head. A few days later he found a small butte, which he identified as the place from which the original find apparently had been carried by the elements. Exposure had caused moss to form over the vein and it was difficult to detect the vein from common rock.

Kept Find a Secret.

Pickens kept the find to himself until last summer. Having obtained the required leases, he was accompanied by his son and another man, each armed with a pick, and removal of the ore was started.

The butte being inaccessible for nearly nine months of the year, Pickens and his two workers labored during the three summer months, and aside from the ore which they have sold, removed more than 25 tons which lies sacked behind barricaded doors awaiting transportation.

Summitville is in the San Juan mountains, long famous for yielding precious ores, and is approximately 40 miles southwest of Del Norte and about 250 miles southwest of Denver.

Trace of Prehistoric Race in Black Hills

Pierre, S. D.—Did a prehistoric race, who builded of stone at some time, make its home in the Black Hills of South Dakota? Or is the formation only a peculiar freak of nature, is what Donald Crabtree is attempting to prove by excavation at a point several miles south of Rapid City, near the state game lodge, where President Coolidge will have his summer home.

Mr. Crabtree, with a force of men, has been working for some time on what is called a wall, built of stone laid in regular order with broken joints as bricks are laid. This has been uncovered for a distance of more than 100 feet, at which location another like "wall" was found running at right angles with the first find, and this is being explored to a greater extent.

Maybe So

New York.—Lady Armstrong, wife of the British consul general, thinks the modern girl is more pious than her predecessors, and she has spent nearly quarter of a century in welfare work. She gave her views at a communion breakfast of the Catholic Girls' club.

Police Instructed to Help Motorists

Toledo, Ohio.—Chief J. H. Bilker has turned the town of South Euclid into a sort of paradise for motorists who don't care to smash speed records and who drive cars only when their breaths are unscented by alcohol.

Chief Bilker has issued orders that every man on the police force is to lend a helping hand to autoists in distress.

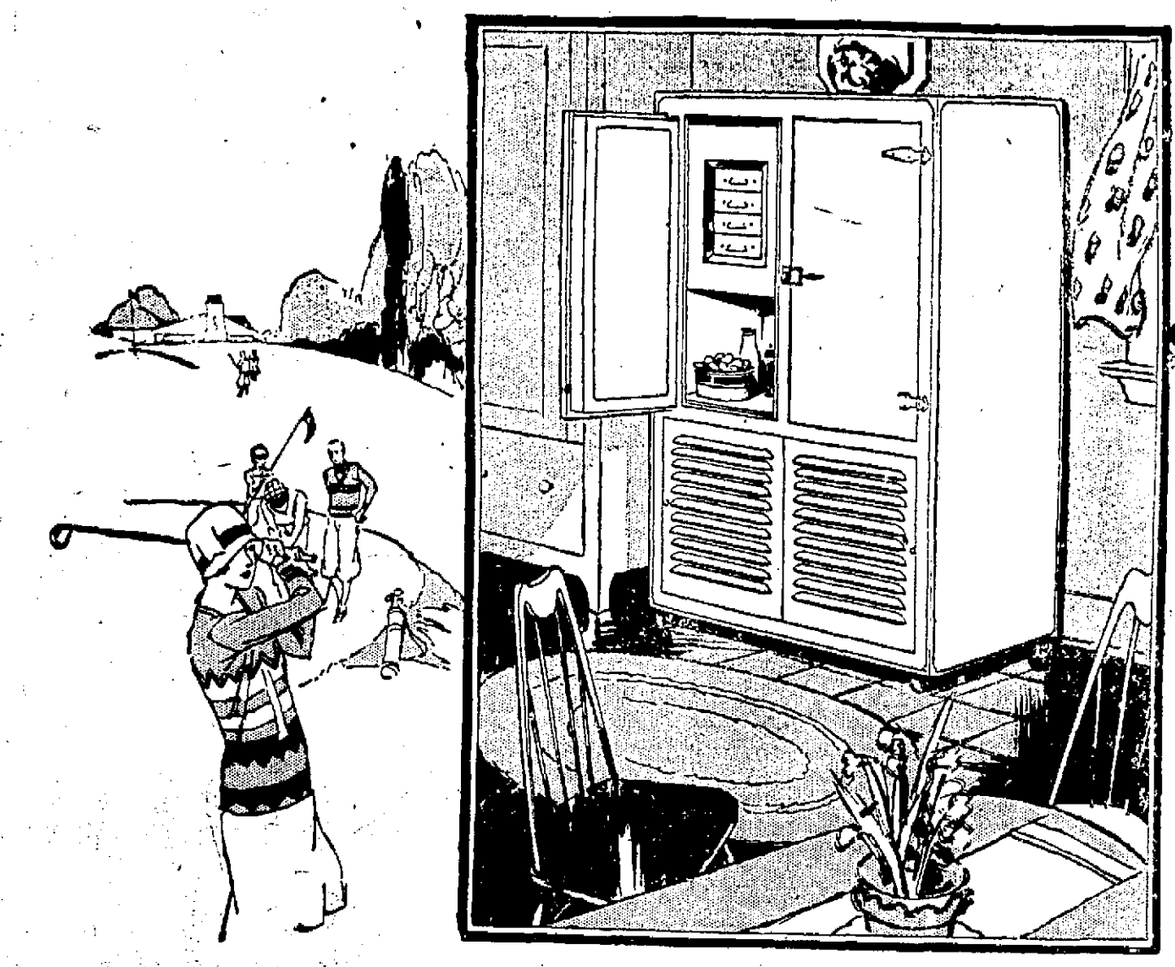

If you have tire trouble a policeman will help you change.

If you run out of gas a policeman will bring fuel, if it is necessary.

If your radiator is boiling a policeman will help fetch water.

If the old bus won't run a policeman will help you push it to the nearest garage.

Frigidaire is automatic

It gives care-free refrigeration the year 'round

Golf, week-end trips, and all the things you want to do during these summer months mean care-free enjoyment when there is no shadow of household worries to bother you.

With Frigidaire electric refrigeration you can leave the food supplies for days, and return to find them in the best condition — fresh and healthful. Frigidaire keeps its constant, cold, dry atmosphere automatically. Milk, to be kept rightly, must have a temperature between 50 degrees and 30 degrees Fahrenheit, and this is held, without variation, in Frigidaire.

You can buy your week's supplies all in one trip, saving yourself the time and inconvenience of frequent shopping excursions.

It's so easy, too, with Frigidaire, to prepare cool supper dishes ahead of time — to make delicious ices, crisp frozen salads, and iced drinks with the sparkle of clear Frigidaire ice-cubes. Guests and family appreciate Frigidaire novelties, the attractiveness and convenience of the ice-cubes, of which there is a plentiful supply always ready for use.

Indispensible during the warmer months, Frigidaire is an all-year-'round dependable servant.

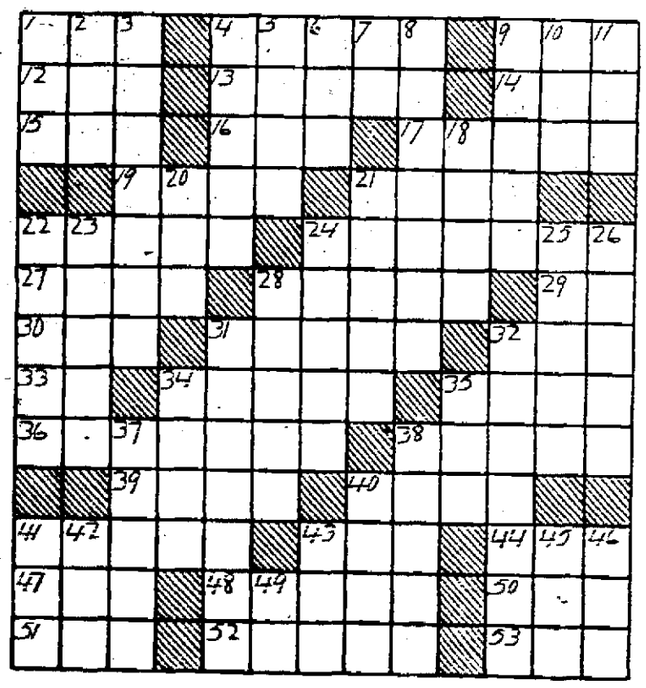

First payment as low as $8.75—

Eats Fruit Tree Pests

The orchard oriole, sometimes called basket bird, is found in eastern North America, over the central plains, south to the gulf of Mexico. The tribe is of sufficient numbers, says Nature Magazine, to be useful to the agriculturist as a destroyer of injurious insects and their larvae, especially those affecting fruit trees.

Sporting Blood to Break Down Hate

National Jealousies and Hatreds Can Be Broken Down by Its Development in American Schools, Says Thomas.

Seattle, Wash., July 5 (AP).—By developing "sporting blood" American schools can do more than any other influence to break down national jealousies and racial hatreds, Augustus O. Thomas, president of the World Federation of Education Associations, declared before the National Education Association here today.

Referring to the New York to Paris non-stop flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, Mr. Thomas asserted that the "sporting trait of the French people made them forget the obnoxious debt issue when Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Le Bourget."

"Sporting blood is the most common blood of the human race and should be utilized in bringing about international understandings and in relieving national jealousies and racial hatreds," Mr. Thomas said. "We seldom have trouble with a good sportsman. It is a trait worth cultivating. Through this element we are closer to the French people today than we have been since the Armistice.

"Much international trouble comes from intellectual rather than economic or political difficulties. The sporting element is closely allied to the social side of life. We need to cultivate each other in order to clear away misunderstandings. Misunderstandings cause hatreds and hatreds cause war. War, therefore, becomes an intellectual problem.

"Our schools can do more than any other influence to break down the wall of prejudice. The sporting sense should be developed. It is the 'wooden horse' by means of which we can break into the walled city of human hatreds. It will strip the mask of deceit from the face of racial and national jealousies.

"If the nations can be brought together and can find a common interest to absorb their attention, they would make more wholesome treaties on economic and diplomatic issues. Baseball enthusiasts can visit all night about their famous players and the great games they have witnessed. Golf players have a common topic to cement friendships. Connoisseurs of antiquities never tire of each other. Many lasting friendships have been found on the links, gridirons and the diamonds.

"If the schools have a world-wide mission, it is to clear up the idea that some are the chosen people and that some are born superior to others in human rights. It is the mission of the world federation to bring together the leaders of youth and form social and professional contacts which will enable them to see the way more clearly and thus lead the rising generation to right thinking and right attitudes."

Familiarity breeds TRUST

CONTRARY to the old adage, familiarity with some things breeds trust. Advertised products, for instance. The trade-names and firm-names you see regularly in this paper, by reason of their very continuity, kindle familiarity first and then confidence. These are the names that leap to your lips in market-places.

FAMILIARITY of this sort is a thing to be cultivated. The more you know about an advertiser and his wares, the more you are able intelligently to invest the family outlay for the necessities of life. This truth is self-evident.

READ the advertisements in this paper. Read them as carefully as you would read something you had to sign your name to. They will save your shopping time and your shopping dollars. Go into the stores with your mind more than half made up as to what you want and what you will have to pay.

Familiarity with known goods breeds contempt for the unknown. Advertising begets familiarity.

The fashion, yes—

A&P ESTABLISHED 1859 "WHERE ECONOMY RULES"

but very much more than the fashion

That which seems to have sprung up everywhere as a fashion, is rapidly assuming the proportions of a national habit based on knowledge and experience—the experience that it pays in the best sense of the word to deal with the A & P.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

RIDING THE BEAR

Little Alice has asked to hear again the story of the little girl that rode the bear.

I may not be able to tell it just as told it before but the main part of the story will be the same.

You see, perhaps being brought up with Nick, and entering into all the things that Nick did, had made Nancy very fearless.

Nick never tried to frighten her, so that she never thought about being afraid of anything. He would take her for wonderful coasts in the express carts, and as long as Nick did the steering, Nancy always felt absolutely safe.

So this story had always been a favorite with them.

But I must go on with the story!

One day there came to the village where Mrs. Cucumber Green lived (Mrs. Cucumber Green was the little girl's play name and she always liked having it used rather than her real name), a man with a performing bear.

The man would sing a song which sounded like:

"Ah-duddy-ung, duddy-ung, dung, dey," and the bear would dance around on his hind legs.

Then, of course, the people would throw the bear pennies.

Now the man became annoyed because he did not get more money.

So he said he would have the bear climb a pole for anyone who would give him ten cents. Some one gave ten cents and up the pole the bear scrambled.

Then more dancing followed, but the people became rather tired of it, and the man had to think of something quite new with which to amuse the people so he would make more money.

"Now, whoever will give me fifty cents may have a ride on the bear. He is quite safe and will not harm anyone.

"Come along, come along! Who wants to ride the bear?"

As you might think, nobody was particularly anxious to ride the bear.

But the man discovered that there was some kind of a discussion going on between some people.

So once more he called out:

"The person who takes this ride will be given a good long one—all the distance to the next corner."

That was practically a block, and that is really quite a distance to ride on a bear. Mrs. Cucumber Green finally rode him.

Some one offered to treat her to the ride if she would ride the bear.

So Mrs. Cucumber Green rode the bear. She wasn't a bit frightened. It was hard to stay on but she loved it!

And she felt as though she had never had such fun in her life, for she felt quite like a real circus performer with the crowds of people following and watching her.

As she had always thought circus performers were wonderful people, she quite enjoyed making believe she was one.

But when it was all over and her mother heard what she had been doing it made her mother feel quite nervous and she made Mrs. Cucumber Green promise that never again would she ride any wild animals!

CURE SPEECH DEFECTS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Seattle, Wash., July 5 (AP).—The elimination of the social and vocational handicap of speech defects through special corrective training in the public schools was urged by Miss Alice Liljegren today at the conference of Corrective Speech Teachers of the National Educational Association.

Miss Liljegren is supervisor of speech correction in the public schools of Omaha, Nebraska.

"Statistics indicate that there are half a million children in our schools who have speech defects," she said. "The speech defect handicap is largely unnecessary. European schools have demonstrated that over 90 per cent of all defect cases are curable, our own experience in the Omaha schools verifies this statement.

"The only remedy for speech defects is re-education in the child's habits; therefore, the correction of speech defects is an educational problem.

"Vocationally the speech defective is barred from many of the professions and from many forms of business. His efficiency is lowered in any occupation. Socially the speech defective is even more seriously handicapped. A speech defect is often the direct cause of permanent defects of character which cause serious social maladjustments.

TO CONSERVE BIRD LIFE.

National Life Conservation Society Advocates Reforestation.

Albany, July 5.—The National Life Conservation Society which is interested in the conservation of all wild life, particularly bird, at its state convention held at Monticello, N. Y., emphatically endorsed the reforesting movement as an aid to conserving bird life.

Mrs. Howard D. Doane, chairman of forestry, offered the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted by the 1,200 delegates present.

Whereas, wild life is largely upon forest habitat, and

Whereas, the destruction and removal of large areas of forests have resulted in a large diminution of wild life, and particularly bird life, and

Whereas, the restoration of our forests would assist materially in restoring the abundance of wild life that this country once had, therefore, be it

Resolved, that the National Life Conservation Society emphatically endorses the movement now in progress for the reforestation of the idle land of which there is approximately 4,000,000 acres in New York state alone, and be it further

Resolved, that this society expresses its approval of the efforts of the state through the Conservation Department, to encourage the reforestation of these lands with young trees which the Conservation Department furnishes at a nominal price of $2 and $4 per thousand for planting on privately owned land, and free for planting on state owned land.

Essential To Better Food

Pertinent Facts Regarding This STATE

In This state there are 27 firms engaged in the manufacture of refrigerators, employing 1,084 persons and producing $5,612,309 worth of products. The annual payroll of these 1,084 persons is $1,927,031.

MODERN research methods indicate very forcefully the need for proper refrigeration during the entire year, not just during the summer months as is the common belief. The average national figures taken from authentic government records show that out of the entire 365 days of the year there are only 19 days of natural refrigeration, that is, days when the thermometer ranges between 32 and 50 degrees Fahrenheit. In New York State this average is a trifle higher, approximately 26 days.

Science has determined that mold and bacteria begin to function when the temperature rises above 50 degrees Fahrenheit and thrive very rapidly as the temperature increases. On the other hand, food spoils at once upon being exposed to temperature lower than 32 degrees. These facts indicate the value of proper refrigeration through modern refrigerators which keep the temperature always between 32 and 50 degrees Fahrenheit, never going above or below those two points, the ideal temperature being in the neighborhood of 45 degrees.

Makeshift refrigerators, such as boxes fastened to the outside of window sills and other methods of more or less general usage are shown by these figures to be positively worthless and to be nothing more or less than germ breeders.

The newspapers of New York State are reaching daily the entire 2½ million homes of the state, all of which are vitally interested in the proper refrigeration of food. Manufacturers of Refrigeration Equipment can reach this enormous market through these daily newspapers more economically and with a greater response than through any other medium for they are in daily contact with those homes where proper refrigeration is needed. And national statistics indicate that this market has the financial ability to satisfy its every need.

We are prepared to furnish further facts concerning this market either as a whole or in part. Ask your local newspaper or write The Advertising Bureau, NEW YORK STATE PUBLISHERS, 709 Charlotte St., Utica.

New Attack on Fort Neilson

Albany, July 5.—The historic timbers that are being used to rebuild Fort Neilson on the Saratoga battlefield, possess a powerful attraction for the souvenir hunting tourists who visit the battlefield. If not interfered with, these relic hunters probably would do what General Burgoyne's forces failed to do,—capture it and carry it off bodily.

Thousands of visitors to the battlefield stop to watch the reconstruction of the old block house and carry away chips of the timbers from which it is being built. The material from which the block house is being constructed consists of heavy oak and pine hand-hewn timbers that have been collected from old buildings that probably were standing on the battlefield at the time of the battle. One zealous relic hunter sought to annex the end of a heavy oak beam which he hoped to be able to have manufactured into a chair or stand as a souvenir of the old American block house on the scene of the battle that terminated the end of General Burgoyne's invasion.

The first story of the old block house is now practically completed with all of the old timber securely bolted in place, and the collection of souvenirs has been limited to chips and pieces too small to be of use but quantities of chips large enough to be smoothed off and labeled have been taken by tourists interested in preserving relics of one of the most important battles in the history of this country, and one of the fifteen decisive battles of the world.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, July 5.—Miss Jewell F. Carroll and a party of friends sailed for Scotland July 2. They will visit England, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Switzerland and France.

Mrs. R. E. Bartlett is making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Christiansen of Bloomfield, N. J.

A regular meeting of Huguenot Grange was held Saturday night, July 2, when a patriotic program was given. Edgar U. Beebe was chairman and Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Jansen were host and hostess. At the last meeting third and fourth degrees were conferred on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dressler, Mrs. Delia Dingee, Ida DuBois, Mabel Alexander, Gertrude Vanderlyn, Mrs. Amanda Curtis, Rosalie Gerlicher, Stella Roosa, Ralph Buchannan, Earl Dingee, Ernest DuBois. After the business meeting refreshments of cake and ice cream were served by the refreshment committee with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnston as host and hostess.

Miss Amy E. Clark of the Normal faculty will be at Chautauqua, N. Y., until the middle of August.

Mrs. Alexander McKelvey of Kingston spent Sunday with Mrs. Ruth Armstrong and daughters.

Mrs. Mary C. Akins of New York city was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Russell R. Akins over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland S. Tiffany of Windsor, Conn., are visiting at the Methodist parsonage.

George Millham made a business trip to Vermont last week. Business prevented him from spending the time he would have liked. He rode about 200 miles a day the entire trip. He found a good apple crop in the part of the country he visited, especially McIntosh Reds. He brought home some nice orders for barrels for McIntosh Reds and is shipping them as fast as he can get cars. The crops in Vermont are fine, not only apples but also tobacco and all vegetables are growing well. The season in spite of starting late seems to have caught up to and passed that of New York state.

Last Sunday morning the Children's Day exercises were held in the Reformed Church under the chairmanship of Miss Loretta Freer. The church auditorium was decorated with daisies, peonies and syringa and looked very attractive. The pastor, the Rev. E. D. Miner, gave an impressive talk on the Bible to the children. The morning program follows: March, "Onward Christian Soldiers"; prayer, Rev. E. D. Miner; Welcome, Gertrude Osterhoudt, Helen Bleecker and Catherine Petersen; recitation, Florence Turner; Sacrament of Baptism; song by Sunday school; recitation, Lester Dunham; song, "A Sunbeam", by beginners and primary class; recitation, Gertrude Simpson; recitation, Roger Juckett; song, by Sunday school; recitation, Rose Lefever; exercise, "Anchor of Promise", by eight girls; recitation, Lorna Van Orden; song, Ruth Seward; exercise, "Jesus Loves Me", Gene Fuller, Jane Chambers, Elaine LeFevre and Ruth Pine; song by four girls; recitation, Roy Juckett; offering; recitation, Mildred LeFevre; talk to the children, by Rev. E. D. Miner; and benediction.

Miss Myra Gerald has accepted a position in the New Paltz post office.

Miss Florence Smith, who is teaching at Rockville Center, was a guest of Miss Beatrice Thorne over last week end.

Mrs. Ester Hart and daughter, Mary, spent last week end in New York visiting Mrs. Hart's sister, who returned home with them for a visit.

A large number of the regular students at the normal are expecting to take advantage of the summer session and thus shorten the three years which are required to complete the required course.

Miss Marie Wetsmuller with three of her friends sailed June 28, on the S. S. Minnekanda. She expects to visit France, Germany, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and England, returning home September 3.

Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Woolsey motored to New York Friday to see their son, Lewis, off for Europe. He sailed on Saturday on the New American in company with a large number of other Yale men.

Miss Kathryn Dean of Poughkeepsie called on Mrs. Webb Knitten on Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Anna Lucy spent the week end in Marlboro with her cousin, Miss Kathryn Oppenheim.

Dallas Grimm spent Friday evening in Newburgh.

Daniel Lucy was a caller in Modena last Sunday.

Miss Margaret McClennon spent the past week visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCormick, in Plutarch.

Mrs. Joseph Hasbrouck, Jr., and daughter, Leah, of Modena were callers in town Saturday evening.

Walter Taylor is assisting Edward G. Hasbrouck in his clothing store this week.

Mrs. Lunetta Wiling DuBois was in New Paltz for the Fourth of July and attended the Pageant.

Mrs. Etta Camp and sister, Miss Johnston, have been moving the past week into the house that they have recently acquired of Harry Hasbrouck on Upper Main street.

Mrs. Crans has returned from a motor trip through the Catskill mountains.

Lists Closed for Training Camps

w Record Heights Reached as 8,000 Young Men Apply for Training, 8,000 More Than Can Be Accommodated.

Reaching new record heights, enllment for this summer's Citizens' litary Training Camps of the Sec- Corps area closed today with ex- applications on file from almost 000 more youths than can possibly accommodated in the eight C.M.T. encampments operating in July August.

With the original corps area quota 4,700 openings increased by the ernment at the last minute to 5.- 0, applications from youths of New rk state, New Jersey, and Dela- re totaled the record figure of 099 as the enrollment campaign ended, it was announced by Major-General James H. McRae, corps area commander.

In closing the C.M.T.C. lists to further enrollment, General McRae said notifications would be mailed to all youths whose applications arrived after the 5,200 camp vacancies had been filled. Unsuccessful candidates will not be so notified, however, until it is definitely determined that all accepted candidates will fill the camp openings reserved for them. No additional applications will be sought.

Increase in the camp vacancies to 5,200 marks the greatest number of C.M.T.C. youths to be trained in Second Corps Area camps. Of the 5,200 accepted candidates, 2,000 already have been named in orders by General McRae to attend the three July C.M.T. camps opening next Friday. These camps will be held at Plattsburg and Fort Niagara, N. Y., for basic and infantry students and at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., for cavalry candidates.

Five other encampments will begin August 5, continuing for thirty days. The August camps, with 3,200 students in attendance, will be held at Plattsburg and Fort DuPont, Del., for basic and infantry courses; Fort Monmouth, N. J., for radio and signal corps work; Madison Barracks, N. Y., for field artillery training, and Fort Hancock for coast artillery instruction.

THATCHER
BOILERS-FURNACES-RANGES

Snug and Warm

UNLIKE cock-robin in the story book, who had to "put his head under his wing, poor thing" to keep warm, you and your family can enjoy perfect comfort on the coldest days if a Thatcher Round Boiler is installed in your home.

Among its many advantages are:

Drafts, Checks and Dampers respond instantly and automatically to maintain the desired temperature;

The construction of this boiler makes it specially suitable for use with an oil burner;

Quick steaming, due to the high dome which produces rapid evaporation, and the crown sheet cast in the fire-pot, which circulates the water immediately above the direct rays of the fire.

Mail coupon and literature will be sent you, describing in detail the many unusual features of the Thatcher Round Boiler and other Thatcher products.

Colonials Drop A Double Header

Local Ball Players Fall Before Generals Twice on Monday—Loose First Game 3-1 and Second Contest 5-2—Hogan Registers Fifteen Strike Outs.

The Colonials did no celebrating at all Monday—for at nightfall when Bosses Robins and Culloton locked up their ball park for the day the Colonial forces had lived through two defeats. There was one in the morning to the toll of 3-1 as they failed to hit at the timely moments and a second to the Generals in the afternoon by a 5-2 score by virtue of the fact that the form of the great Mike Hogan overshadowed the ball park.

Morning Game.

Johnnie McMara was elected to do the Colonials' pitching job in the morning and worked well enough to win the game. However, a few wild spells now and then coupled with the Colonials' inability to hit on the timely occasions, cost the game in the morning. McMara gave the Generals but six hits while his opponent, Dollard, allowed the Kingstonians nine safeties during the fray.

The locals stole two hits together from Dollard in the third session of the contest and were able to bring around their lone marker. McMara opened the inning with single down second but soon went out as Loeser hit out a grounder. Bill Shay sent a double blow to the far corners of center field and Loeser sped around with the sole run of the game.

But the Colonials lost their game each time as they failed to hit when hitting was most necessary. During the fifth frame the Kingstonians had an excellent chance to draw in a couple of markers but failed to produce the necessary blows to push the runners around. At the very start of the session Robins and McMara singled but could get no help at all from their teammates as the next three Colonials experienced various misfortunes.

The Generals brought around the winning runs in the sixth session and added one more in the seventh. Van Dyke's double scored two runners in the sixth stanza while Evers left his footprints on the plate in the seventh after being helped around by Eddie Phelp's single.

Afternoon Game.

The Colonials were never able to have much fun at the expense of the railroaders when their chief ace, Michael Hogan, was along so naturally only the worse was looked for in the afternoon bout. But Mike was never on the rampage to the extent that he went at it in Kingston on Monday. The great spitballer was at the peak of devastation in this contest for fifteen times he sent Colonial batters to the dugout after whiffing at his benders. He also gave seven hits but up until the eighth frame but three notches were made in his offerings.

Mike overshadowed the rest of the Generals in these nine frames and the contest seemed to be nothing but the Colonials against one man—a pitcher.

In the third and the ninth innings the Colonials scored their two runs. A fielder's choice put Carter on first in the third session and he went to third on passed balls. When Hogan pitched one wild this inning Carter scored. Loeser hit a double and Robins singled to score him in the ninth for the locals' other run.

The Generals scored in their third, fourth and fifth frames. In the fourth session Marterer clouted the ball over the left field barrier for a homer and the run this inning. Evers and Hogan scored in the third while three hits in a row scored the Generals two runs in the fifth frame.

A foul ball perched on the top of Umpire Connelly's head in the afternoon game and play was suspended a few moments while James ascertained how badly he was injured. But there was no harm done.

Sir Michael was certainly at his best for fifteen strikeouts is no mean accomplishment. Jack Robins was the only Colonial whom Mike was unable to feed with his perplexing benders. Ferdie Allen could do nothing for he whiffed four times.

Twilight ball will start Wednesday as the Colonials meet the Brooklyn Cubans at the Fair Grounds. They will meet again at Stamford on Thursday and stage a third battle here on Friday.

That makes five won, six lost and a percentage of .445.

Culloton Pitches Brilliant Ball

Colonials Defeat D. & H. Generals by 1-0 Score as Local Hurler Stages Duel With Rossback—Winning Tally Scored in Eighth.

Although a miniature deluge happened at an inopportune time Sunday afternoon threatening to cancel the Colonial-D. & H. Generals game as well as keeping most of the less daring fans at home, Bud Culloton and Freddie Rossback went to work and staged a great ball game as the Colonials won out by a 1-0 score. It was a game that was rolled into the Colonials' bat bags in the eighth inning as the Kingstonians squeezed in the only tally of the contest.

Culloton and Rossback both pitched airtight ball, the former allowing five hits and the latter six. Both twirlers kept their hits well scattered throughout the game and it wasn't until the eighth frame when the Culloton-Robins forces snatched two sacrifices in a row that they could win the contest.

Bill Schwab started the eighth with a single to left. Robins flied out to Van Dyke. Bud Culloton added more luster to his brilliant performance by walloping a double to the center of the outer garden and putting Schwab in a scoring position. Smith batted for Loeser and bunted directly in front of the plate. Rossback hurled the ball to Stevens at the plate to get Tommie Davitt, who was running for Schwab, but the visiting catcher dropped the ball and the Colonials had grabbed their winning run.

Howie Carter, the newly imported third baseman went on duty for Sunday's game and proved to be everything he was cracked up to be. He pulled his prettiest play in the sixth. Eddie Phelps drove a hot liner down the third base line at the start of the inning which Howie snatched one-handed out of the air and pegged to McDermott in time to get the General.

Industrial Game Tonight.

The Schillings and the Palens will clash in an Industrial League contest at the Athletic Field this evening at 6:15. A large crowd is expected to see the battle in which Connelly and Didzik will do the battery work for the Schillings while Szcypsca and Dulin will probably do the mound work and receiving, respectively, for the Palens.

Caseys Lose At Ravena

The Knights of Columbus baseball team met defeat at Ravena Independence Day when they weakened before the attack of the Ravena-Coeymans aggregation. The local team dropped the game 7-2.

The Caseys took the lead in their half of the opening stanza but the opposing aggregation evened things up when they took their turn at the bat. The nines battled on even turns until the fifth when the mountain boys went into a one run lead, only to increase it to three in the sixth and five in the eighth inning.

The Caseys' hurling was done by Jimmy Volker who allowed twelve hits. Poor support contributed to the downfall of the local boxman.

The work of the outfield players, McGrane, Feeney and Cahill, as well as Leskie on third sack, helped to keep the Knights in the running.

The Journey of Life.

When about to undertake a journey we consider the way, the people, and the conveniences of travel, and try to meet their requirements in advance. An effort is made to learn what we can from the reports of those who have traveled that way, and we accordingly supply ourselves with accessible literature pertaining to it. This is the course that wise people follow, but there are many inconsiderate ones who give no attention to sane preparation, and therefore get confused respecting the course, get off at uninteresting and dangerous places, suffer much inconvenience, and derive little benefit. Therefore, let us give heed to the proper beginning of our journey.—Psychological Magazine.

Dempsey Satisfied With Himself

Confident That He Will Be the Dempsey of Old on July 21—Is Trying to Develop Sledge-like Blows.

White Sulphur Springs, Saratoga Lake, N. Y., July 5 (AP).—Jack Dempsey is satisfied he will again be the devastating body puncher of pre-championship days when he touches gloves with Jack Sharkey at the clang of the opening gong on the night of July 21.

Eased in mind by the rugged training drill that has kept him physically active every waking morning since the suicide of John Dempsey, his brother, after killing his wife in Schenectady Saturday, Jack is certain that he can and will regain the sledge-like hammering power that carried him to the world heavyweight championship over Jess Willard's punch slashed hulk on the fourth of July eight years ago.

The Dempsey of today—seventeen training days before Jack must face the skill and confidence of sensational youth—is impressive as yet only in possibilities. Despite the shock of recent tragedy, Jack is carefree and playful in his work with the campmates—an easy and composure he sadly lacked during preparation for the losing battle with Gene Tunney last fall.

In training Jack has surprised critics during early workouts when he chose to sacrifice development of speed for temporary display of socking power. The weaving attack of the former titleholder slowly is developing into a fast, head bowed charge that carries him through a hail of straight left hand punches into close quarters, where Jack slams away effectively with both hands to the body.

For the time being, however, Dempsey will confine work to paring down his weight, now about 201 pounds, shortening punches, and improving the speed of his attack.

PAN-AMS ADD TWO MORE VICTORIES TO STRING

The Pan-Ams registered a win over the Glasco team on the Brickmakers' diamond Sunday afternoon, 15-3, and on Monday overpowered the Fleischmanns team 4-2 on the mountain team's diamond. The latter game was an interesting one as the oil men had to battle hard in order to take the "bacon". Charlie Fay made one of the feature plays when he clouted a neat homer. Paul Joyce came through with several doubles for the Pan-Ams. Carpenter and Chester formed the battery for the Oilmen. Wolfe and Zimmermann made up the nucleus of the Fleischmanns nine.

The Conflict

George Ade, the incorrigible bachelor, was the life of a church supper in Brook.

"George," said a paterfamilias, "why don't you get married?"

Mr. Ade, as he helped himself to Maryland biscuit and fried chicken, answered calmly:

"Too proud to fight." — Chicago News.

Tagging Major League Bases

It was far from a safe and sane fourth in the major leagues.

The Washington Senators came to New York with a winning streak that had extended to 10 games and departed with a losing streak of two while a crowd of more than 74,000 looked on at the slaughter. The paid attendance of 72,641, largest, ever to witness a ball game, saw Bucky Harris's team suffer two bad beatings, at 12-1, and 21-1. Lou "Buster" Gehrig connected for his twenty-seventh and twenty-eighth home runs of the season and is now two up on Babe Ruth in their circuit marathon. But the Bambino had a good day at bat, getting five hits in seven attempts.

High explosives were touched off all along the American League battlefront, 101 runs being bombarded across the plate in four doubleheaders. The Boston Red Sox and the Philadelphia Mackmen shook off protracted losing streaks by dividing, the A's winning the first 10-2 after seven consecutive beatings, and the lurid hose the second after 15 straight reverses.

Cleveland set back the Chicago White Sox 2-1 and 6-2. The St. Louis Browns and Detroit halved, the Brownies taking the first, 8-4 behind Sam Jones's flinging, and losing the next 10-8.

A crowd of 60,000 watched Pittsburgh shake down the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, 7-2 and 6-4. By winning twice the Buccaneers retained their fragile hold on first place while the on-rushing Chicago Cubs were dropping Cincinnati, 2 to 1 in ten innings, and 6-3.

The New York Giants won their second doubleheader in two days by flooring Brooklyn, 4-3 in 11 innings and 9-4. Rogers Hornsby hit his fifteenth home run of the season in the third inning of the second game.

The Boston Braves gained two games at the expense of Philadelphia at 5-4 and 8-2. The Phils have now lost six games in succession.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS.

(By The Associated Press).

Chicago—Tiger Flowers and Maxie Rosenbloom drew, 10. Mike Sullivan, St. Paul, defeated Harry Dudley, San Francisco, six. Bill Tate, Chicago, knocked out Emanuel Jondis, Greek heavyweight champion, 1.

Is Super-Champion

Rochester, N. Y.—Harry Gordon, butcher on trial for killing a business rival, rates himself a super-champion in his "profession." On the stand he said he once killed and skinned a steer in seven minutes and it took a dozen other butchers over an hour to do such.

Feminine Beauty Now at Less Than Par; Face No Longer Fortune to Thousands

Thousands of girls are out of work in New York because of the Summer shutdown of amusement places. Yet they must spend hours daily in exercise if they hope to hold jobs as chorus girls later. Picture below, snapped at a casting office, shows rush for jobs when a solitary show opened.

By ELMER CLARK,
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK (I-I-N)—A pall of depression envelopes Broadway at this time of the year.

Hotels are cutting their rates. Night clubs are darkening. Theatres are shutting their doors and but few new shows are starting. Ballyhoo artists work overtime in vain.

Those whose money makes the lights twinkle are slipping away to the mountains and seashore. Entrepreneurs of entertainment are following them.

Left behind are the underlings, or most of them. The men can leave their third-floor-backs on side streets, leave the sweltering city, and try their luck at hopping bells, saving lives, or washing dishes in the resorts. Even a banjo and ability to play it is good for a Summer's tour of resorts, with expenses and meals collected from hotels and camps in exchange for entertainment at the inevitable dances.

But the girls have no such opportunities. A very few can get jobs as waitresses, but they face keen competition from the men and students of their own sex. The rest—well, the Lord knows what they do!

Two thousand chorus girls are out of work in New York today, according to estimates of Harry J. Lane, of the Actors' Equity Association. Hundreds, in the flush of Spring, left their homes in the hinterland. A few found jobs on the stage. Others found employment in night clubs; others became salesgirls and waitresses. And now they find themselves without jobs of any kind.

Pay for chorines is never high, seldom permitting the development of a bank account. And in many cases, when work stops, so does eating.

When Fall comes again, conditions will be better. New shows will be casting, some of the night clubs will be reopening and even the restaurants will add more waitresses.

Meanwhile, there's two months of waiting, and hoping for a letter from ...

LOS ANGELES (I-I-N Special)—The economy wave ordered in the movie industry is probably striking its most cruel blows at the extras.

The number hired is to be cut, is the word that has gone forth, and panic is spreading among the hundreds of girls here who have been hanging on "waiting for something to turn up."

Life is never easy for the bits of femininity who come here with a few cents in their pocket, confident that once they're here stardom will be theirs. And now life seems to be a little bit harder.

National Emblem of Wales Is Red Dragon

While the harp is a Welsh national instrument, it is not recognized as the national emblem. The national emblem for Wales is the red dragon of Cadwallader, the last of the Welsh kings. This emblem had a place in the royal arms of Great Britain as a supporter in the reign of King Henry VII, but that king, toward the end of his reign, changed the supporters, which were the two white lions of March, to the Welsh dragon on the dexter side, with the white greyhound on the sinister. The latter emblem was representative of either the De Beauforts, his own ancestors, or the Nevilles, the ancestors of his wife, both of these families using the white greyhound as a family badge. In 1528 his son, Henry VIII, used for supporters to the royal arms the golden lion on the dexter, while the red dragon of Wales, which his father had used on the dexter, he relegated to the sinister side. These supporters continued in use until the accession (in 1603) of James VI of Scotland as James I of England. James kept the golden lion on the dexter, but changed the red dragon of Wales on the sinister to the unicorn, as in the royal arms of Scotland—an emblem of purity.

"Star-Spangled Banner" Finished in Rowboat

The last lines of "The Star-Spangled Banner" were written in a rowboat by Francis Scott Key and were not penned in the hold of a prison ship as the old school books taught.

Legendary history was that Key was a prisoner of war while watching the British bombardment of Baltimore and Fort McHenry during the war of 1812. The correct story has been brought to light by the Woman's Home Companion, which shows that Key was permitted to go to the British flagship under a truce signal to obtain the release of a friend who had been taken prisoner, and arrived just as the enemy was ready to open fire.

The young poet developed his verses during the anxiety of the night, but it was while returning to shore in a small boat the following morning that he wrote exultantly "'Tis the Star-Spangled Banner, Oh! long may it wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

A girl may have a mind as keen as a razor's.

A scientific friend, the head of the chemistry department of the University of Buffalo, stands up for the doughnut, saying that tales of its indigestibility are cross slanders and, at best, the fabrications of ignorance. He does not say how he reached that conclusion. But it is possible to come at it by ways which science would perhaps pronounce crude. The heaviest consumption of doughnuts is among messenger boys, young office clerks, high school students, farm hands, truck drivers and men along the waterfront who can top off a meal of four hotdogs and three cups of coffee with an order of fried cakes that would grease four wheels of a car, including the differential. Students, through their teachers, may know what indigestion is, but most of the others have only a vague idea of the word's import.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 5 (AP).—Quiet strength characterized today's stock market which moved upward under the leadership of General Motors and General Electric. A few soft spots cropped out here and there, but they were disregarded as pools continued to mark up their favorites with the assistance of a good reinvestment demand for the seasoned dividend payment issues.

Credit conditions were again favorable, despite the fifth consecutive deficit reported in clearing house reserve. Banks called about $25,000,000 in loans, but there were plenty of funds available at the renewal figure of 4½ per cent and loans in the outside market" were reported as low as 4¼. Secretary Hoover was quoted in private Washington dispatches as stating that he saw no unfavorable developments in the business situation.

Buying of the rails centered largely in Southern Pacific and Chicago and Eastern Illinois which attended new 1927 peak price and in such high priced issues as Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, Norfolk & Western and Atchison, all up two points or more.

General Motors was bid up to 202¾ by early afternoon, representing a gain of 3¾ points above Saturday's close and more than 11 points above last week's low. General Electric ran up over four points to 117¾ and was followed into new high ground by American Can, Collins and Aikman, Union Carbide, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Simmons Company and several others.

Missionary Picnic.

The Missionary Society of the Franklin Street M. E. Zion Church will hold their annual picnic on Wednesday, July 22, at Forsyth Park. The regular monthly meeting of the society will be held on Wednesday evening. All members are requested to be present at the parsonage at 8 p. m.

Fortunate is he who has a fat purse to lean on.

Better to be loved and bossed than down to be loved at all.

Pantheon work passed very quietly. Not a mosquito was heard.

If girls begin dressing like girls, how will the boys know 'em?

The Chinese don't seem to agree any better than any other factional politicians.

The only nation which seems able to agree on naval disarmament is Switzerland.

About the only interest anybody has in a ghost any more is wondering if it will walk.

True speech is something worth fighting and dying for, but don't talk too darn much.

About the Folks

Master Harold J. Smith is spending the summer in Richmond Hill, L. I.

Firmen Heppner and Gillen of the paid fire department are enjoying a two weeks' vacation, starting today.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bartine and Mrs. Mae Bartine of Haverstraw are the guests of Mrs. Minie Ballard, 79 Franklin street.

Lines-Hahn.

A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hahn, 36 Gill street, on Sunday, July 3, when their daughter, Louise, was given in marriage to Stanley W. Lines. The bridal couple were attended by Wilfred Hahn and Miss Theresa Gates. The Rev. F. W. Meyer performed the marriage ceremony in the presence of members of the family. Mr and Mrs. Lines left for a wedding trip to East Hampstead, Long Island.

Golden Wedding Anniversary.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Carpenter on Albany avenue extension near the city line Sunday afternoon was the scene of an enjoyable function, their golden wedding anniversary, they having been married on July 3, 1877. Those present included six children and eight grandchildren. The lawn and the house were beautifully decorated for the occasion and it was a jolly and happy gathering that enjoyed a sumptuous wedding anniversary dinner served on the lawn where the tables were spread. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter were the recipients of numerous remembrances, many being gold pieces.

Some men need their vacation in summer, others in the winter; some need two weeks, others need more; vacations should be planned according to the requirements of the individual person. These are some conclusions that were reached in one large manufacturing concern in which the health of the higher executives has been watched over for the last six years by a physician. Causes of absence and illness were found to be related to the duration and season of the vacation. The efficiency of the men increased gratifyingly, as did their health, under the new regimen, whereby each man's vacation was prescribed by the physician.

"Who is the child's father?" is a question that it has never before been possible to answer with sufficient accuracy for legal purposes. Recently, however, it has been found that the grouping of the blood is hereditary to a certain extent, reports Hygeia. The blood of all persons falls into one of four groups according to the way in which the red corpuscles clump together or dissolve when two bloods are mixed. The test now available cannot definitely indicate that a man is the father of a certain child, but it can indicate in some instances that he could not possibly be the child's father.

A film comedian wants a divorce because his home was too hilarious. Comedy is a gift requiring a considerable amount of study to ascertain the values of contrasting effects. If there are to be laughter and boisterous demonstration, they should be on the part of the spectators who pay. In the movies a custard pie is a tool of trade and should not be hindered in its effects by the minor pie of domestic conviviality.

American Stars Become Champs

Helen Wills and Elizabeth Ryan Annex Women's Doubles Championship—Defeat South African Team.

Wimbledon, July 5 (AP).—America won its third 1927 Wimbledon tennis championship today when Miss Helen Wills and Miss Elizabeth Ryan defeated Miss Bobbie Heine and Mrs. J. Peacock of South Africa in the final of the women's doubles. It was a straight set victory at 6-3, 6-2.

Hunter and Ryan Win.

Francis T. Hunter and Miss Elizabeth Ryan defeated Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Goodfree of England in the final of the Wimbledon mixed doubles, giving the United States four out of the five champions. It was a straight set victory at 8-6, 6-0.

Local Death Record

Michael Rarey, a lifelong and respected resident of this city, who was a ship carpenter, died at his home, 61 German street, today, after a long illness. He is survived by two sons, Edward J. and Michael, Junior and 2 daughters, Mrs. James Cannon and Mrs. Frank Carlin. Funeral from the residence at 8:30 o'clock, Thursday morning, July 7, and at St. Peter's Church at 9:30 o'clock, where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment in St. Peter's Cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Rose Rist was held from the home of her son, Frank Rist, No. 25 Park street, this morning at 9 o'clock and at 9:30 at St. Peter's Church where a requiem Mass was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. J. P. Neumann. The services were largely attended by her many relatives and friends, there being also a large delegation from the Society of Christian Mothers in attendance. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, testifying to the high esteem in which she was held. The bearers were members of the family and interment was in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery, where the committal services were conducted by the Rev. Joseph Huband.

Kate Voorhees Hammond, widow of John D. Ennist, died Monday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William A. Longyear, after an illness of a few months. Mrs. Ennist was born at Grahamsville, N. Y., May 12, 1851, the daughter of Mary Voorhees and the Rev. John W. Hammond, who for many years was pastor of the Reformed Dutch Church, at Grahamsville, Highland, Roxbury and Shokan. Mrs. Ennist was a member of the Reformed Church at Shokan for more than fifty years. She is survived by three children, Mary, wife of William A. Longyear, John J. Ennist of Highland, Ella, wife of D. D. Everett of Ridgefield Park, N. J.; five grandchildren and one brother, John H. Hammond, of Lake City, Colorado. Funeral from the residence of her daughter, 83 Elmendorf street, on Wednesday at 2:30. Interment in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

Mrs. Elizabeth Forde, wife of the late John J. Groves, died Saturday afternoon at her home, No. 36 Montrepose avenue, after a long illness. Funeral services were held from the late residence Monday morning at 10 o'clock, the Rev. Gregory Mabry, rector of the Holy Cross Church, officiating. Interment was in Montrepose cemetery. Her husband died several years ago. He was superintendent of the Delaware & Hudson Company's ship building plant on the Rondout creek. Mrs. Groves had been in ill health for a long time and as the months passed her condition grew such that all hope for her recovery was given up. She was a woman whose Christian character endeared her to all with whom she came in contact. And while it was known that no hopes for her recovery were held news of her death came as a sudden shock. She had resided on Montrepose avenue for many years. She is survived by six children, Emma, wife of the late Hazzard Swart; Anne J., wife of E. E. Becker; Elizabeth, wife of Albert Terwilliger; John G. Groves, former Recorder Harry F. Groves, and County Attorney Robert G. Groves.

Two Motor Boats Try for Records

Albany, July 5 (AP).—W. J. Conners, Sr., Buffalo capitalist and motorboat enthusiast, attempted to break two records for power boat over the Hudson river course from Albany to New York.

In his power cruiser, W. J. Conners III, Mr. Conners left here at 9:30 a. m., in an effort to lower the existing record of four hours and twenty minutes for craft of that class.

Mrs. Conners remained behind, expecting to leave at 1:30 p. m. in the attempt to lower the record of two hours and forty minutes made by Richard F. Hoyt's Teaser in 1925.

The W. J. Conners III passed Kingston Point about 11:15 this morning.

Seventy-five Hurt In O. & W. Wreck

Nyack, N. Y., July 5 (AP).—Reports of several dead and 75 injured in a railroad wreck on the West Shore Railroad at Jones Point brought calls this afternoon for every available ambulance from Nyack, Newburgh and Suffern, N. Y.

The report was that a New York Ontario & Western railroad train with about 8 passenger cars, moving at full speed southward, had crashed into a freight train at Jones Point south of Bear Mountain.

Advices were that the passenger train crashed through six of the freight cars, piling up beside the track.

Scenes of great confusion prevailed an early check of the dead and injured.

Jones Point is the "grave yard" of many disabled shipping boat vessels, anchored in the Hudson river.

Suggestion to modern song writers: Why not get up a lyric saying that I'm sorry or glad, as the case may be, that you did or didn't make me cry?

Garden Club Sale Thursday

Considerable interest has been shown by the garden lovers of this city and vicinity over the flower market which will be held by the Ulster Garden Club at Academy Green Park on Thursday, July 7, beginning at ten o'clock in the morning.

Anyone interested in the growing of flowers will find in this sale a fine opportunity to secure choice seedlings and plants at very reasonable prices.

To judge from other sales of this character, it is very probable that even the large selection of seedlings and plants which will be offered at this time will be quite inadequate to supply the demand and the interested public is therefore urged to come at an early hour when selections are still complete and in the best condition.

Many requests have been received in the past for a chance to purchase cut flowers at these sales. In response to this demand there will be offered for sale on Thursday quantities of lovely cut flowers from the gardens of the club members arranged in striking and beautiful bouquets.

Should the day of the sale prove stormy the sale will be held on the following day.

There is no way to make it rain, says a weather expert, but it seems to help some when you put on a white suit.

Gregory to Head Governor Clinton

The directors of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, which owns The Governor Clinton Hotel, have elected John H. Gregory president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Herbert Carl. Senator Arthur H. Wicks has been elected vice president in place of Mr. Gregory and W. Andreson Carl has been elected a director in place of his father, the late Herbert Carl. The hotel, including the annex, has been filled every day since last Wednesday and the net profits for June will be nearly double the profits for the corresponding month last year.

"Indian Giver's" Fate Told as a Warning

"Indian giver," the term applied to persons who give something and then want it back, never fitted the Blackfeet tribe after the Great Spirit brought disaster to Napee, an old man of their nation, according to a legend.

The aged Indian, so the legend runs, was traveling alone when he met a coyote and made a companion of him. They came upon a huge rock on the plains and Napee took off his buckskin coat and presented it to the rock. After resuming their journey rain began to fall and Napee sent the coyote back for the coat.

But the rock would not return it and the coyote scampered back to the Indian with its tail hanging between its legs. The aged brave was angered and he returned in haste, took the coat, and again resumed his journey. He and the coyote had not gone far when he heard a loud, rumbling noise.

Looking back they saw the rock rolling after them. It bowled over a herd of buffalo and came on in pursuit. The coyote was killed. Napee saw a hawk soaring in the sky and called to it for help. As the hawk flew down, the overheated rock burst in two with a loud explosion. The Indian went on his way greatly frightened, but he had not learned the moral lesson of the incident, for when he came upon the hawk's nest he forced open the mouths of the young hawks until they bled.

The old hawk had followed and the Indian ran into the lake, thinking he would escape the bird, but he could not keep his head above water lest the hawk pick his eyes out. So Napee was drowned. The Blackfeet to this day relate the legend and point gravely to the moral of it. In trading with other tribes they always laid stress on the fact that they believe in standing by their bargains. — Kansas City Times

Cream of the Joke

Lee De Forest, the radio pioneer, told a broadcasting story at a banquet in New York:

"A comedian," he said, "gave a very good broadcasting turn one night, and wound up with the joking words:

"'Now, ladies and gentlemen, if any of you have a favorite song I will be very glad to sing it. You need only speak the title into the loud-speaker.'

"The comedian waited half a minute; then he went on:

"'A lady has asked for "Old Black Joe." Music, please.'

"And he sang 'Old Black Joe' and said good-night.

"A good joke," Mr. De Forest ended, "but the cream of it came the next day, when a dozen women wrote in. Each woman thanked us warmly for 'Old Black Joe' and said it was she who had asked for it through the loud-speaker."

Centers of Trade

It is a noticeable fact in the cities that industries, shops and professions have a marked tendency to locate in groups, a section often being given over to some one calling. In New York, for instance, the leather trade is to be found bunched around under the approach to the Brooklyn bridge. The fur trade has possessed itself of Eighth avenue in the Thirties, just as Madison and Lexington avenues have gone antique in the Fifties and lower Fourth avenue has become the home of second-hand books, so that section of the city where Cortlandt and Greenwich streets intersect has been taken over by radio shops.

One may stand on the corner and count no less than 25 radio shop signs, and around the corner, unseen from that point, are others still.

Planes End Mill's Rest

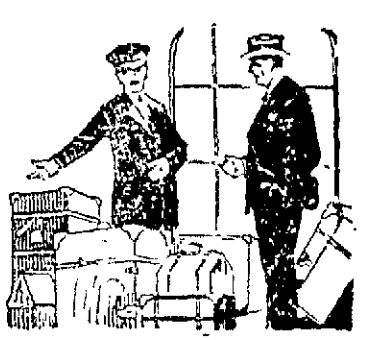

By carrying a piece of machinery by airplane from London to Turkey recently, a long shutdown of the government cotton mill in Constantinople was averted. A wire order was received by a firm in Belfast, Ireland, for repair parts for a Sirocco fan, which had been damaged in an accident, causing the whole mill to stop. A representative of the mill at home in England on leave, visited Belfast, carried the parts by train to London and traveled by airplane to Paris and thence to Bucharest and Constantinople. The trip was made in two days, five days less than had it been by train.

Wren's Sweet Song

While Jenny Wren is incubating her mate perches nearby, untiringly warbling his sweet song, says the Nature Magazine. After the young are hatched there is little rest for either of them. Caterpillars, beetles, bugs and spiders must be supplied in astonishing numbers all the time, until the youthful wrens are ready to help in the hunt.

Company Honors Men Who Risk Their Lives to Save Companion

Winner of Vail Medal (shown above) being congratulated by man whose life he saved.

"For courage, initiative and persistence in the face of great danger, resulting in the saving of human life," J. R. Lentz and J. M. Horner have been awarded Theodore N. Vail medals by the Western Electric Company. A fund for the awards, which are made each year to employes of companies composing the Bell Telephone System, was set up seven years ago as a memorial to Theodore N. Vail, late president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. They are awarded "in recognition of unusual acts or services."

When notice came to Lentz of the honor conferred upon him, the man whose life he had helped to save was working by his side and was the first to congratulate him.

According to the citations, Lentz and Horner, employes of the Western Electric Company, with a companion, William Wampler, were swimming at Atlantic City when their comrade was caught by a strong undertow. After making every effort to aid the exhausted swimmer to reach shore and finding the current too strong for them, Lentz made for the beach. Although an unusually strong swimmer, he had great difficulty in reaching land through the rough water. Before collapsing from weakness, he managed to get four men started in a boat to rescue the men in danger.

Horner meanwhile remained with his almost unconscious companion for over half an hour in the darkness and, while the two drifted through rough water farther out to sea, kept him afloat until a boat arrived. Horner was completely exhausted by the experience, while the rescued man required artificial respiration to restore consciousness.

RED CROSS SWIMMER JOINS Y. W. C. A. STAFF

On Thursday of last week, and for the two following days, Miss Alice McLaughlin of Port Ewen, a very active member of the Kingston Y. W. C. A., went to Albany to take the American Red Cross Life Saving test for swimmers. There were some hundred candidates for the test, which was given by Captain Carol Bryant, [illegible] executive of the Red Cross. Auto Theft and Hold-up Reported

A Buick sedan was taken from the residence of James Wright, Kingston, R. F. D. No. 3, Saturday night. The loss was reported to the sheriff and Sunday the car was located by the sheriff on the state road just below Port Ewen. The car was not damaged and had been abandoned when the gas supply ran out. It was turned over to Mr. Wright.

About 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning as George Sniffin and Edward Taylor, of 209 Dykeman street, New York city, with their wives were proceeding along the state road near Esopus, two men attempted to hold them up. They stepped on the gas when commanded to stop and drove to a gasoline station up the road, where they left their wives and returned to the scene of the attempted hold-up. No one was to be found. When they refused to stop the two men picked up rocks and bombarded the car. Several of the rocks struck the car. The matter was reported to the sheriff's office and the supposition is that the men were probably the ones who took the Wright car and after abandoning it started out to walk along the road in the hopes of picking up another chance to ride. Good descriptions of the men were secured.

Old Landmark Changes Hands

Elwyn Brothers Sell Their Store at Woodstock to George C. Layman of Saugerties and Will Retire from Business.

One of the oldest and best general stores has just been purchased by George C. Layman, the well known grocer of Saugerties, who has taken over the entire stock and real estate of Elwyn Brothers at Woodstock. The Elwyn Brothers wish to retire from business after 20 years as successful merchants. Woodstock is fortunate to have an experienced groceryman like Mr. Layman who has a reputation of keeping a fine line of staple goods and many years of experience.

This store was originally established by a Mr. Lockwood in the year 1856. He operated a general store until the time of his death in 1865 when the property was sold by his widow, Sarah Lockwood, to Edgar Snyder and Orison Vandervoort who conducted a store for several years when Orison Vandervoort sold out his share to William Martin. Then the store was conducted under the name of Snyder and Martin until March, 1876, when Edgar Snyder purchased Martin's interest and from that time until 1901 he operated the store until his death. It was then leased to Lasher & Harder until 1905 when it burned. Then in the year 1907 it was purchased and the present building erected by Jacob Bruckner who first leased it and then sold the same to Elwyn Brothers in 1912.

Mr. Layman is already in possession of the business, and it is hoped much success will accompany his new venture.

The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Edward Moran of Saugerties.

Before going to Saugerties, Mr. Layman for several years conducted the store now owned by A. D. Ross on Franklin street.

Mother Ants Employ Babies as Needles

"A baby that you sew with, a baby that's needle and thread—child labor with a vengeance, eh?"

The naturalist closed a book by a brother-naturalist, Glenwood Clark.

"Glenwood Clark tells all about it here," he said. "The baby I refer to is an ant, not a human being. In the chrysalis or baby form this ant secretes a silk, and with that silk its mother sews the leaves together to make the ant nest, using the baby itself as a needle, mind you.

"The ant nest is built on a twig rather high up in a tree. The leaves that form it are held together by one group of ants, while another group —mothers armed with their babies— does the sewing.

"They hold their babies in their claws. They press the tiny heads against a place where two leaf-edges join. The heads deposit on the leaves their cobwebby silk, and then they are moved across the leaf joint, needle fashion, back and forth, and as they move they make a thread.

"In this manner, thanks to the needle-and-thread babies, the ants' nest is soon ready."

Meal Time in China

The Chinese consider the stomach the source of intellectual life, and therefore the fattest man goes for the wisest one. They affect to believe that foreigners come to China to eat because they have not enough to eat at home. It is considered a mark of refined politeness to treat a guest or a visitor to a meal at any time of the day. For the most part only those who have families take their meals at home; the rest eat at hotels. They usually have two substantial meals a day—one an hour after getting up in the morning, the other between three and four o'clock in the afternoon. The well-to-do class take three or four meals a day. Often the father alone eats meat, while the rest of the family have to be satisfied with rice.

3 Incorporations In Ulster County

Number of New Corporations in State Slightly Smaller For Past Six Months Than In Corresponding Period Last Year—Vegetarian Restaurants Increase.

Albany, July 5.—The good old fashioned vegetable dinner is rapidly coming into its own, judging from the number of vegetarian restaurants that are incorporating in New York state at the present time. Apparently more and more people are demanding, or at least are attracted by a vegetable diet. A report covering the activities of the corporation bureau, just issued by Robert Moses, secretary of state, shows an unusually large number of such restaurants as having incorporated during June. The demands of Dame Fashion are also noticeable in the number of garment making concerns incorporating and embarking in business.

The first six months of this year, however, do not quite measure up to the same period in 1926, in the number of companies of all sorts and description, that have incorporated. The first six months this year brought a total of 13,845, as compared to 13,878 for the first half of 1926. There were 375 real estate and construction companies incorporated in New York state last month.

Outside of New York city, Westchester county had the largest number of companies incorporating last month, the total being 84. Erie county having 59 companies and Nassau county 42 companies.

In Ulster county, three companies having a total capitalization of $70,000, incorporated last month.

Child Training That Has Harmful Effects

Too much or too little affection of parents is equally harmful and both spoil character. The training that produces docile obedience spoils the child's native aggressiveness and leaves him to be easily beaten in the later competitions of life by minds superior only in their inner preparation. The authority of a parent is a responsibility rather than a privilege.

Another risk assumed by parents, which is not so commonly understood, is that of hurting their children by affection. With human beings the love attitude may persist in such a way that the child never actually matures and comes to have a fully developed self-life, or indulgence heaped upon the child by the parent may spoil the zest of life and keep the child emotionally infantile. He may become fixed upon the parent so that he is essentially parasitic in his inner emotional cravings and cannot maintain normal relationships in business, social contacts or later family life if he ever attempts to establish a home of his own.—From "Social Problems of the Family" by Prof. Ernest R. Graves.

Famous Brigade That Served "Lost Cause"

Two reasons are given for the naming of the Orphan brigade of the Confederate army. Kentucky tried to be neutral when the Civil war broke out, but neutrality was violated and many Kentuckians decided to fight for the South. The famous Camp Boone was formed near the Kentucky line, a few miles north of Clarksville, Tenn. Fifty companies from 84 counties in Kentucky enlisted. These composed the larger part of the First Kentucky, better known as the Orphan brigade.

One of the reasons why this command was called the Orphan brigade was because so many commanders were lost, either by reason of promotion or by death on the battlefield, says a contributor to the Pathfinder Magazine. Another is that the members were away from Kentucky during nearly all the time of their service and so cut off from communication with friends or family.

Pageant Programs Still Obtainable

There were some Pageant programs left over from that big spectacle held here last week. So many people have asked where these might be obtained that it has been decided to place them on sale in the stationery stores in town.

Although called a program, this is really a book of eighty pages containing a brief history of Ulster county, a complete story of the Pageant, many illustrations and the names of all those who took part insofar as such names have been obtainable.

Such a book will make a delightful souvenir of one of the greatest scenic productions ever staged in this county.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Reception has been rather poor for several days. WJZ has whistled, grunted, faded and done all of the things it ought not to do, and most other stations did likewise. An exception was WSEA at Virginia Beach, which was heard when New York stations could not be tuned in. Daylight reception Sunday was weak and troubled with static in the afternoon. Late at night WLW and WGN were the star DX stations.

Monday afternoon the only good reception was WJZ from 2 to 3 o'clock. In the evening everything was weak until a late hour when WLWL, WABC, WMSG, WSEA and a Montreal station were good. Ottawa was obscured by a squeal. Evidently the new dispensation has not cleared all of the Canadian stations at all times.

Freer Caught Big Pike.
